

U. S. TO SUE "DOCTOR TRUST"

RUSSIANS LEAVE
50 DEAD AS JAPS
REPULSE DRIVESWar Council in Tokio
Follows Battle.

TOKIO, Aug. 1 (Monday).—(AP)—A Japanese war council today said Soviet Russian troops twice counterattacked Changkufeng and Shachofeng, from where they had been dislodged, and were repulsed after hours of fighting.

The Russians left fifty bodies on the field and Japanese took two more tanks and two field pieces, the army communiqué said. The Soviet forces covered both their attacks with artillery fire.

The attacks began at 6 p. m. yesterday, the Japanese war office said, where Japanese forces had succeeded at dawn in wresting control from the Russians of the strategic hilltop at Changkufeng near the junction of the borders of Japanese-protected Manchukuo, Korea, and Russian Siberia, southwest of Vladivostok. The Russians had occupied the hill on July 11 and began fortifying it.

Large Forces on Both Sides. Korean army headquarters estimated that the Russians suffered 200 casualties and lost considerable equipment. Japanese were reported to have sustained "some casualties."

The war office said large forces were deployed on both sides of the ill-defined border with the Soviet troops bombarding one frontier point with heavy artillery concealed in the hills.

(Tass, the official Soviet news agency, in a Moscow dispatch said "Japanese militarists today violated the Soviet frontier on the hills west of Lake Khasan" and occupied Soviet territory to the depth of two and a half miles. Lake Khasan is in the neighborhood of Changkufeng. The news agency declared Japanese troops attacked Soviet frontier guards suddenly at night under cover of artillery fire. The Japanese suffered great losses in men and equipment, Tass reported.)

Word of the new clash came as a complete surprise as announcements both in Tokio and Moscow had indicated that, despite recurring incidents, only diplomatic means would be used to settle the differences.

Premier Meets War Chiefs. Emergency meetings of Japanese government leaders reflected the seriousness with which the situation was taken in Tokio.

Prince Fumimaro, Kono, the premier, Lieut. Gen. Selshiro Itagaki, minister of war and president of the Manchurian affairs bureau, and Kazushige Ugaki, foreign minister, conferred until late last night.

Before their conference they had met with members of their individual staffs. Lieut. Gen. Itagaki summoned the director of the military affairs bureau and two members of the army general staff.

Japan's Account of Fight. A war office spokesman last night gave the following account of the border action:

"Two days ago Soviet troops occupied Shachofeng, which is approximately 1,000 yards north of Changkufeng hill, and began fortifying it as they had done at Changkufeng."

"They clashed with border guards, but were repulsed and then returned with reinforcements. The Japanese countered and a terrible fight ensued at Shachofeng and Changkufeng."

"The Russians used mechanized units, including tanks and heavy artillery. Changkufeng was retaken at 4:40 a. m. and Shachofeng at 6 a. m. Soviet big guns now are bombarding Kucheng, which is a nearby point."

Seize 11 Tanks, 2 Cannon. Korean army headquarters said the armament captured included eleven tanks, two field pieces, three machine guns, and two automatic rifles.

Kensuke Horinouchi, vice minister of foreign affairs, only Saturday rejected a Soviet protest which charged that on Friday two Japanese Manchukuo detachments had crossed the Siberian frontier and attempted to seize a hill.

He sent a counterprotest in which he asserted the Japanese attacked only after Soviet troops had crossed the Manchukuo border and began fortifying heights near Changkufeng.

Troops and Labor Board Near Clash

GUARDS TO STOP
HEARING, SAYS
IOWA GOVERNORShowdown Today on Martial Law.

BY CHARLES PURVIS.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Newton, Ia., July 31.—(Special).—An impending clash between the authority of state troops and the authority of the National Labor Relations board was brewing tonight in this strike harassed town.

Gov. Nels G. Kraschel, using his powers as commander in chief of the state troops, last night ordered his National Guardsmen to halt the labor board hearing.

into the C. I. O. strike at the Maytag washing machine factory here.

Tinley Conveys Orders. Trial Examiner Madison Hill late tonight said:

"Mr. Gen. Matthew Tinley, who is in command of the troops at Newton, has conveyed verbally to me that he has orders not to allow the labor board hearing to proceed and that these orders will be confirmed by a written order later this morning. He granted permission to convene the hearing with counsel for both sides present for the purpose of putting into the record the order to terminate the hearing."

"I have no further comment to make on the situation until I convey the terms of the written orders to the labor board in Washington and have received a reply."

Hopes to Get Settlement. Gen. Tinley said the hearing positively will not be permitted while an effort toward settlement of the strike is being made by the disputants. Informed that attorneys have said no such efforts are being made, the general said:

"Well, maybe we can get a settlement if we stop the hearing which has been increasing the tension." The general said he had been trying, in the capacity as a private citizen, to bring the disputants together.

Previous to the verbal order Hill had received instructions from the labor board in Washington to go ahead with the hearing in the absence of a formal order from the governor to force its state troops can halt a federal inquiry is the question being heatedly discussed here tonight. Newton folks, chafing under twelve days of martial law, welcome a fight between rival authorities as a respite from tension of the local strike situation.

Military Called Supreme. Lawyers agreed that as long as the governor's martial law is unchallenged the military authorities are supreme over all courts and tribunals, both state and federal. The rule by martial law might be challenged, however, in a federal court. Then, if the governor still insisted upon troop action, the court might call upon the President for federal troops to enforce its processes. Ultimately, therefore, the federal government would be supreme, but the establishment of its supremacy would require a series of legal and executive actions reaching to the White House.

Splashed with Hot Water. A number of the passengers and eight employees of the dining and Pullman cars were splashed with hot water or hot foods in the diner and kitchen of the Mercury, or were otherwise injured by the crash.

Uninjured and slightly injured passengers aboard the Mercury were transferred to a special train made up at Rocky Ridge and continued into Cleveland. The Commodore Vanderbilt continued its run toward New York.

The Mercury was struck after coming to a stop because it had grazed an automobile at a crossing. Both trains were eastbound.

HOSPITAL DISCOVERS
STRICKEN FARM HAND
RATES BEST SERVICE

Indianapolis, Ind., July 31.—(Special).—Farmhand Jack Morgan was a willing worker, but he was a little green, they said on Omer Addison's 100 acre farm near Knightstown, where he has been threshing, milking the cows and cleaning the stables.

They knew he hadn't earned enough to pay his hospital bill, when he came down with appendicitis and had to be brought here for an operation at St. Vincent's hospital. But they needn't have worried.

The humble farmhand gave his full name for the hospital records—John Pierpont Morgan III. He's the son of Junius Morgan and the grandson of J. Pierpont Morgan. John Pierpont III, who is 21 years old, came here from Harvard to study farming.

A railroad locomotive was commandeered yesterday to speed two amateur aviators to a hospital. Their rented plane had crashed into a marshy prairie near Willow Springs. One of the flyers died later of his injuries, but the locomotive's mercy errand was credited with saving the life of the other.

Donald Probstfield, 38 years old, 1142 Wellington avenue, was fatally injured. His companion, John Germanich, 23, of 1131 North Ridgeway avenue, was still unconscious last evening.

Probstfield rented the plane at the Harlem airport, 95th street and Roberts road, from Willis T. Howell, 3338 West 61st place, for $5 an hour. The plane was a Piper Cub with a 40 horse power motor.

Plane Goes Into Spin. Witnesses, including patrons of a golf driving range, saw the flyers doing steep banks at several hundred feet. Evidently the pilot got the nose of the ship too high, according to witnesses.

Bystanders sloshed through the mud to the scene of the crash, near 87th street and Harlem avenue. It took them 45 minutes to extricate the flyers from the wreckage. Willow Springs county highway police arrived, but were unable to reach the plane with an ambulance.

Injured feared the effect upon the lives of men of carrying them in stretchers over a half mile of rough and soggy ground to the road. Sgt. James Allegretti and Policeman Alexander Topp saw a freight train approaching on the nearby Indiana Harbor Belt line tracks.

Police flagged the train and asked the crew to help. The engine was uncoupled and the injured men were placed in the locomotive tender and Engineer Ray Huber sped north.

At 63d street and Archer avenue an ambulance was waiting. The men were lifted into it and taken to the Bervyn hospital.

Probstfield held state and federal pilot's licenses, renewed July 15. He was service manager at the Maple-Clark Motor Sales company, 1036 North Clark street. Germanich, who has charge of the radio department there, was learning to fly.

Probstfield's widow, Catherine, was in St. Paul with their daughter, Phyllis, 7 years old, when she learned of the accident. She came to Chicago by plane last night.

Pusher Engine
Plunges Train
in River; 52 Die

KINGSTON, Jamaica, July 31.—(AP)—Sixty persons were believed to have been killed and more than seventy-five injured yesterday when a pusher locomotive at Location of wreck indicated by arrow.

of a five car train jammed with holiday crowds pushed the lead engine and cars from a steep curve in the mountains near Balacava.

Fifty-two bodies have been recovered from the tangled and splintered wreckage. Most of those killed were in the first coach, which tumbled into a river. Seventy of the injured were in hospitals.

One Coach Intact. The pusher locomotive had been attached to the train at Balacava, seventy miles northwest of Kingston, to help take the heavily loaded cars over the mountain tracks. The lead locomotive checked its speed on a steep curve and the rear engine, going at full speed, pushed it down the embankment. The tender, baggage car, and four coaches were telescoped into the wreckage. The first coach tumbled down the grade into the river. It was demolished and every occupant was killed or injured.

The second coach crumpled and the third coach piled on top of it. By this time the rear engine had slowed down. The fourth coach was badly damaged, but the fifth coach remained intact.

For hours the splintered coaches with their freight of dead and injured lay in the river bed and on the embankment before machinery could be brought to lift the wreck.

Fear Children in Wreckage. The railway's director ruled out a theory of sabotage. The accident occurred near where rail workers were busy and another train had passed the spot but an hour before.

Survivors said the first indication of the disaster was a jar followed by a terrific shock as cars crumpled, hurling passengers in all directions. It was feared the bodies of several school children returning home to spend Emancipation day, Aug. 1, the centenary of the freeing of the slaves in Jamaica, were in the debris.

FIGHT MEDICAL SOCIETY BAN ON
LOW FEE CLINICGrand Jury to Sift
Boycott Charges.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., July 31.—(Special).—The department of justice announced today that the American Medical association will be prosecuted as a monopoly under the federal anti-trust laws.

A grand jury investigation will be made in the District of Columbia, according to the announcement, and indictments will be sought against the national association, against its affiliated society in Washington, and against certain leaders of organized medicine. The association and individuals are accused of violating the law by boycotting low cost clinics.

May Avoid Prosecution. A suggestion is made in the government statement that organized medicine and its leaders may avoid trial on the indictments by agreeing to consent decrees which would assure the cooperation of the medical association in the operation of cooperative clinics.

Starting to the medical world, the prosecution will set a precedent of vast consequences. It will affect every man, woman, and child who has occasion to need the services of a physician. Regarded by some as paving the way for socialized medicine in the United States, such legal steps were declared by the justice department to be essential in order that cooperative health groups may function.

Such cooperative groups are composed of persons who pay a certain sum a year for medical care. A group has its physicians who agree to provide virtually complete medical care. Organizations of this type have been opposed by the medical associations on the ground that they lead to lower professional standards.

2,500 Federal Employees Join. The specific case singled out for prosecution by the attorney general is that involving the Group Health association, Inc., of the District of Columbia. It was organized a year ago by 2,500 government employees. The American Medical association, the Medical Society of the District of Columbia, and some of the officials of both these organizations have been attempting to prevent this association from functioning, the statement charged, and in so doing have violated the anti-trust laws.

Although this proceeding concerns especially the District of Columbia, it is selected because its importance is nationwide and its value as a precedent is of far reaching consequence on one of our most pressing problems," Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold said. "The illegal activities of organized medicine in this instance are typical of what has occurred in other cities throughout the country whenever cooperative health groups have been formed."

Puts Sigma on Members. The activities of the two medical societies that were termed in violation of the anti-trust law consisted first of threatening to expel from their membership doctors who accepted employment with the group health association and second, threatened expulsion of members who took part in medical consultations with physicians on the group association staff.

"Because of the power and standing of the medical society and the stigma sometimes attached to expulsion from it, this causes group health association great difficulty in employing competent physicians," the attorney general said in the first instance.

"This in effect amounts to forcing members of the medical society to participate in an illegal boycott of group health association doctors," the statement said about the second charge.

Doctors on the group health association staff also were excluded from Washington hospitals, the attorney general charged.

Trust Law Violation Charged. "This has been accomplished either in combination with the various hospitals or by means of influence, which may or may not have amounted to coercion, upon them," the statement said. "This exclusion has made it impossible for doctors affiliated with group health association to practice their profession in the hospitals and it has prevented members of the association who enter the hospitals as patients from having the services of the physicians of their choice.

"In the opinion of the department of justice this is a violation of the anti-trust laws because it is an attempt on the part of one group of physicians to prevent the qualified doctors from carrying on their calling and to prevent members of group health associations from selecting physicians of their choice.

"The department interprets the law as prohibiting combinations which prevent others from competing for services as well as goods. The particular persons responsible for this violation can be ascertained only by a grand jury investigation. Such an investigation will be undertaken by the department in the near future."

A tentative proposal for settlement of the proceedings, after they have been started, was extended by Arnold. "The department feels that it cannot take the responsibility for declining to present to a grand jury evidence that the anti-trust laws have been violated whenever it has such evidence in its possession," he said.

Seek Court Decree

"In the event that voluntary cooperation results in constructive proposals going beyond the elimination of illegal practices, the department will adhere to its previously announced policy of submitting such proposals to the court as a basis for a consent decree."

The phrase "beyond the elimination of illegal practices" was interpreted as meaning that the department of justice would not agree to a consent decree on the mere promise of the medical associations to stop fighting health groups. A definite pledge to encourage the formation of such would be exacted, it was indicated.

"In starting this proceeding the department of justice emphasizes that it is not deciding what are the proper methods of solving the problems of medical economics or indeed whether cooperative health associations have a place among those methods," said Arnold. "It simply takes the position that monopoly practices should not be employed among persons who are illuminating experiments in this field."

Observation Made Easy

"The group health association seems to provide the opportunity for such an experiment, since it is composed of government employees of general similarity of health habits and working conditions, and occupies a field in the nation's capital where close observation may be made of the results and adequate publicity given to any conclusions."

"The department believes that the anti-trust laws make it impossible for medical societies or individual practitioners in the District of Columbia to obtain or retain for themselves a monopoly of the community's medical services, so long as adequate standards are maintained in the treatment of patients among those doctors who are willing to serve cooperative or other groups. No combination or conspiracy can be allowed to limit a doctor's freedom to arrange his practice as he chooses so long as by therapeutic standards his methods are approved and do not violate the law."

Free Compensation Sought

"Organized medicine should not be allowed to extend its necessary and proper control over standards having to do with the science and art of medicine, to include control over methods of payment for services involving the economic freedom and the welfare of consumers and the legal rights of individual doctors. There should be free and fair competition between new forms of organization for medical service and older types of practice, without the use of organized coercion or illegal restraint on either side."

"If the newer forms of organization should result in inferior standards of therapy, as is feared by their medical opponents, that fact can be revealed only by experiment. It is hoped that this proceeding will lead to the cessation of such practices as have been alluded to above, with the result that there may be free and fair competition between the new forms of organization and the older types of practice.

This chart shows how patients in the higher income brackets bear most of the cost of medical care for the public as a whole. Physicians point to this fact as an argument for present practices.

"When further legislation is desirable and if so, its form may perhaps be indicated as a result of this investigation."

Economic Situation Involved

At some length Arnold discussed the economic conditions of medicine which, he said, made the suit of great importance.

"In spite of great technical proficiency the medical profession has not been successful in furnishing adequate medical care to all the American people at a cost that they can afford to pay," he said. "Careful studies have demonstrated that the individual practitioner, even though he devotes a part of his time to charitable work, cannot supply all the medical needs of persons of low or moderate incomes."

"Primarily this is not, of course, the fault of the doctor. It is the result of the low incomes of a large part of the community on the one hand, and of the increasing cost of adequate medical treatment on the other. The development of scientific apparatus, increasing specialization, and better standards of care, desirable as they are, have all contributed to this situation."

40 Millions Can't Pay

"Recent studies by government technicians have brought out the fact that the forty million persons in the United States in families with annual incomes of less than $800 cannot pay for medical care and in many cases do not receive it when they are in need of it. For instance, at least half the present toll of mothers' deaths in child-bearing, and of infants in the first month of life, are preventable with proper prenatal care and medical services in delivery.

"Half the babies born annually in this country are in families with less than $1,000 income a year. It therefore is significant that infant mortality is five times higher in families with less than $500 a year than it is in families with $3,000 or more a year. These facts are cited because experience has demonstrated the definite possibility of reducing infant mortality and of danger to mothers by proper care."

"The enormous difference in the records of low-income families is prima facie evidence that the medical profession as it is organized is not providing them with adequate care."

Acute Illness Increases

"Acute illness of all kinds increases as one goes down the income scale. It is 47 per cent more prevalent in families on relief than in those with $3,000 or more annual income. Chronic illnesses are 87 per cent more prevalent in relief families; nonrelief families of less than $1,000 income have twice the illness disability of families with more than $1,000."

"In any one year, 10 per cent of the families bear 41 per cent of the costs of illness. Another 32 per cent of the families bear 41 per cent of the costs, while the remaining 58 per cent of the families bear only 18 per cent of the costs."

"The same family may not stay in the same sickness group year after year. The incidence of serious illness is extremely uneven among persons of the same income. That is the reason advanced for cooperative methods of payment for medical care; by spreading the cost over the whole membership, these methods provide adequate service to all at the cost of a moderate and uniform charge to each."

"Hospital Plan a Success. "This type of organization already is familiar in the United States in dealing with hospital charges, and has proved highly successful. Group hospital plans on a cooperative basis are in force in over sixty cities and cover more than one and one-half million subscribers."

"These facts make it amply clear that the medical profession's present efforts to meet the problem of making its knowledge and skill generally available have not proved successful even from its point of view."

"Cooperative health associations are aimed primarily to help families not on relief. There is the most pressing medical problem today because they have no public funds and will not go to charity. Many studies of the problem, such as the report of the committee on costs of medical care, a research committee organized under a foundation grant, bring out the fact that the moderate income groups have peculiar difficulty in providing adequate medical service for themselves.

"The medically indigent in many localities have access to free clinics or charitable services by doctors, and their unsatisfied needs may be more amply filled than at present by an expansion of private charity or governmental grants. But those with income enough to pay for some medical service either cannot avail themselves of these free facilities or, because of self-respect, they do not desire to do so. Such persons experience no difficulty when their medical needs are slight; but when serious illness strikes, or several members of the family require attention within a short time, the financial burden is excessive."

Consultation Barred

"A striking example of the restrictions placed upon group health associations in securing consultations with other Washington physicians occurred in the case of a patient suffering from a serious heart ailment," he said. "The consulting specialist was instructed by an officer of the medical society that he could not consult with the attending association physician."

"It was, therefore, necessary for the patient to see the specialist alone and for the specialist to communicate his conclusions to the group health association doctor by correspondence. In other instances group health association checks have been rejected by Washington consultants because of fear of the medical society's attitude."

"For example, an association member earning $1,440 a year recently telephoned the association's surgeon at midnight and reported that her husband had been taken to a Washington hospital with acute appendicitis and requested that the surgeon come to the hospital immediately to take charge of the case."

"The hospital declined to permit the association surgeon to operate notwithstanding the fact that the member had desired this surgeon's services and had paid for them through her membership in the association. The member, therefore, was compelled to incur heavy surgical and hospital expenses that she would not have needed to contract for if the association had been permitted to carry out, without interference, its agreement with her. She also was denied the right to have the doctor of her choice attend to the case."

In a half apologetic vein, the assistant attorney general stressed that an indictment for violation of the anti-trust laws does not necessarily charge a crime involving moral turpitude.

CHICAGO CENTER OF BATTLE OVER LOW COST CLINIC

Thirty Doctors Expelled by Medical Society.

Chicago has been one of the chief centers of the controversy which resulted yesterday to a federal attack on organized medicine as a monopoly discriminating against cooperative and commercial medical organization and their patients.

Prominent Chicagoans 18 years ago began a series of efforts to provide medical care for the patient who earns too much to obtain charity treatment and too little to pay the prevailing charges of hospitals and physicians. Since that time, more than 30 physicians have been expelled by the Chicago Medical Society for so-called unethical practice. All participated in low cost clinics which advertised their services.

Institute Not for Profit

The fight began with the establishment in 1920 of the Public Health Institute by several wealthy business men for the treatment of venereal diseases. It was organized not for profit but adopted a policy of advertising so that it might obtain enough patients to pay for the cost of operation.

The Public Health Institute's physicians were straightway ousted by the Chicago Medical Society, which is the local branch of the American Medical Association. The quality of service supplied was never questioned by organized medicine.

The medical society merely pointed to its code of ethics forbidding a member physician to associate with a clinic which advertise and, therefore, competed unfairly with individual practitioners.

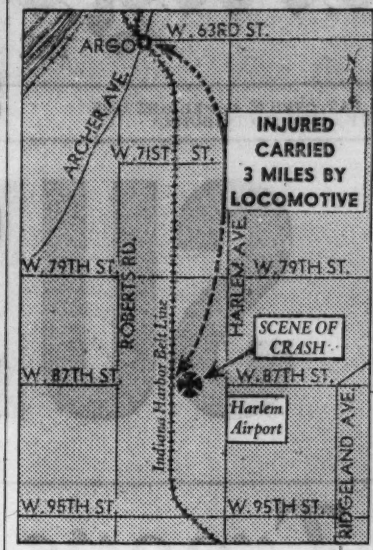

The same breach of ethics was charged in 1929 against Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, outstanding urologist of Northwestern University, and now secretary of the board of health and chairman of the mayor's anti-syphilis committee.

Plan Separate Clinic

Crash in Prairie

When an amateur pilot and his companion were injured in an airplane crash near Willow Springs yesterday an Indiana Harbor Belt line freight train was flagged down and the engine used to rush the men to a hospital. The pilot died, however, and the passenger is not expected to recover.

venereal disease clinic, Dr. Schmidt sought financial aid to continue the operation of the clinic. The Public Health Institute, then headed by Dr. Joseph G. Berkowitz, was planning to establish a separate clinic for charity patients.

Instead, it was agreed that the health institute would pay the hygiene league $12,000 a year to care for these patients.

Dr. Frank R. Morton, then president of the medical society, opposed this action but Dr. Schmidt was steadfast and well supported by civic and public health leaders in replying that he was acting for the good of the public.

Expelled by Society in 1929

The medical society refused to argue his declaration that the whole question was the high cost of care. In 1929 it ousted him for his indirect association with an advertising clinic. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, then coroner and now president of the board of health, resigned from the society in protest.

The dispute became more bitter as

Dr. Schmidt lost his appeals to the Illinois state medical society and the A. M. A. house of delegates. The A. M. A. later adopted resolutions denying its approval to hospitals or universities which had non-members on their staffs. It was generally believed that these regulations were directed at Dr. Schmidt, but both Northwestern University and St. Luke's hospital refused to oust him. The fight of low cost medicine versus the ethics of the conservatives expanded when Dr. Berkowitz left the health institute in 1933 to form the United Medical Service, a clinic for profit. The medical society ousted six physicians of the clinic. It was said to have prompted the state attorney general's ruling, sustained in court, that the service was practicing corporate medicine in violation of the law. The service was reorganized.

Taboo by Organized Medicine

A group of physicians who disagreed with the service's profit policy broke away and in 1935 formed the Civic Medical Center, a non-profit partnership, which likewise was tabooed by organized medicine.

Local opposition has been voiced to the non-profit plan for hospital care which was created in Chicago 17 months ago to insure individuals 21 days hospital care a year for $9.60, as needed. However, at the recent A. M. A. convention, a resolution was passed to prevent medical technicians in hospitals from contributing their services to patients whose bills were paid by such insurance.

Dr. Schmidt Comments

Dr. Schmidt, commenting on the government suit said: "This action is a good thing. Someone should bear down to find out whether organized medicine is a racket or not. There's no doubt that organized medicine is a trust and rules things with an iron hand. We need a system by which people with low incomes can receive excellent medical care."

Dr. Morris Fishbein, spokesman for the American Medical Association and long a foe of governmental efforts towards socializing medicine, made a brief comment on the governmental action last night. "All I know so far is that the government is going to ask for a grand jury investigation," he said. "I don't know how important that is. It will be necessary for the officials and trustees of the association to convene when action actually is started."

WEST VIRGINIA ELECTION HINGES ON CIO AND WPA

State Machine Is Prize in Primary Campaign.

Charleston, W. Va., July 31.—[Special.]—Although quiet on the surface, West Virginia's primary elections, to be decided Tuesday, will test the power of Gov. Homer A. Holt to control the state Democratic political machine. His foe is United States Senator M. M. Neely, who is carrying the banner for Van A. Bittner, mid-west regional director for the C. I. O. steel workers and vice president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Bittner is angry because Holt defeated L. R. Via, Bittner's candidate for the governorship in 1936. Holt was attorney general of West Virginia when he decided to run for the governorship under the sponsorship of Gov. H. G. Kump, who had accused Neely of trying to gain control of the state machine.

Test in Legislature Race.
The actual test will be determined by the nomination or defeat of seven teen aspirants for the state senate and a full house membership of ninety-four backed by Holt.

Opponents of Holt's candidates campaigned on platforms condemning the administration policies of Holt. Holt told the voters they must choose between his policies and those of his critics.

The race for six congressional nominations virtually is a side issue in the primaries. Six Democrats now represent the state. Three of them are opposed, one by two candidates. Nine Republicans also seek the six nominations.

Registration of 1,013,885 voters this year is a record for the state. The Democratic party has enrolled 585,984 and the Republicans 427,901. This is $5,000 more Democrats than voted in the 1936 presidential election and 102,000 more Republicans.

Predict Republican Gains.
Republicans consider their chances good to win at least half the congressional seats in the November election. They also look forward to making a big cut in the Democratic majorities in the state senate and house of representatives.

Chances of Gov. Holt, whose term does not expire until 1941, to nominate virtually all of his candidates are said to be excellent. Only three assembly districts are counted as doubtful. Two of them are mining areas where John L. Lewis' C. I. O. mine vote predominates and the third is a farming district.

Neely and Bittner are staking everything on the power of the WPA and C. I. O. vote. Nowhere is there outspoken opposition to the Roosevelt administration's policies. Gov. Holt will rely upon 13,000 state pay-rollers to get out his vote.

Neely's Status Not an Issue.
Like Gov. Holt, Senator Neely is not up for reelection this year. He served four terms in the lower house and was elected to the senate in 1922, defeated in 1928 and returned in 1930. He was elected the last time in 1936, running on the same ticket with Gov. Holt. His term will expire in 1943.

Gov. Holt and West Virginia's junior senator, Rush D. Holt, are not related. Gov. Holt was born in Lewisburg and is a resident of Fayetteville, where he is a member of a law firm. Senator Holt was born in Weston, where he still resides. His term expires in 1941.

The careers of the governor and senator of the same name are similar. The governor was born in 1898 and graduated from Washington and Lee university, where he taught mathematics and law before entering politics. Senator Holt was born in 1905 and graduated from Salem, W. Va., college. He taught in high schools and Salem college before entering politics. He was elected to the senate before he had reached the constitutional age requirement of 30 years and could not be sworn in for five months. He has been a Roosevelt administration critic.

Reno Romance

JEAN CORCORAN ATWELL.

PEGGY MOFFETT CARLISLE.

Reno, Nev., July 31.—[Special.]—Jean Corcoran Atwell gets her divorce tomorrow on grounds of cruelty from George J. Atwell Jr., polo playing son of the millionaire New York subway builder. A private agreement gives Jean custody of their child. Her divorce will be the signal for young Atwell's marriage to Peggy Moffett Carlisle, daughter of James A. Moffett, former federal housing administrator. Peggy is the former wife of Jay Carlisle Jr. of New York. Young Carlisle recently married Marcelle Edwards Manville, fourth wife of Tommy Manville, asbestos heir. Mrs. Atwell, daughter of Princess Hoheloh-Schillingsfurst, eloped with Atwell in 1930, when she was 21 years old.

DIXIE DEMOCRATS REFUSE TO EASE NEGRO VOTE BAR

Atlanta, Ga., July 31.—(AP)—Negro participation in Democratic primaries, rare in the deep south, engaged the attention today of party officials in Arkansas, Tennessee, and South Carolina. All three have heated senatorial campaigns.

Approached on the subject of relaxing restrictions imposed more than 30 years ago, Democratic committee executives of South Carolina and Arkansas said flatly that party rules excluded Negroes from voting. Tennessee Negroes organized in four large cities and asked the right to cast ballots in the party primary Thursday. Arkansas Democrats will vote Aug. 9 and South Carolinians Aug. 30 in primaries which virtually assure the nominees victory in the subsequent general elections.

Cole L. Blease, former governor and senator, opened the question of Negro voting in South Carolina with an observation that he was informed that approximately 8,000 had enrolled over the state. Blease seeks the governorship again.

"Are the colored people who are enrolling on the Democratic club rolls going to be allowed to vote in the Democratic primary?" he asked the state executive committee.

Secretary Lane L. Bonner replied that party rules provided no Negro could belong and none could enroll and said that if any had, their names were on the books illegally.

In Arkansas, J. M. Robinson, president of the Arkansas Negro Democratic association, asked the executive committee to revise a party rule providing that all known white Democrats may vote. He suggested it be changed to permit all known Democrats to cast ballots.

State Chairman June P. Wooten said the committee could make no change.

Hoodlums Kidnap Girl, 17, from Companions in Auto

Chicago police early today were watching for two young hoodlums who kidnaped a girl in Hammond, Ind. She was a member of two couples sitting in a car in Hammond when the hoodlums drove up. They forced all but her out of the car and then drove her away. One of the men sat with her. The other followed in another automobile. The kidnaped girl is known only as Sophie. She is 17 years old. The stolen car, owned by Walter Kotoc, had Indiana license 804-504.

TROOPS READY; MEMPHIS BOSS SEEKS U. S. WRIT

1,200 Guardsmen Drawn Up for Tennessee Primary

(Picture on back page.)
Nashville, Tenn., July 31.—[Special.]—Tennessee's heated primary campaign was focused on Nashville tonight as contesting factions awaited the disposition of 1,200 National Guard troops which are mobilized for duty.

Gov. Gordon Browning said he had been urged to send the troops to supervise the election Thursday in Memphis—the stronghold of Edward H. Crump, his political foe—but that no order had been issued for the movement.

In Memphis Boss Crump prepared a plea for a federal court injunction to block use of troops in the election. He said he would present the petition to Federal Judge John D. Martin.

Governor Sticks to Course.
Gov. Browning said the plans for an injunction would not swerve him from his course.

"It's silly to think that the governor of a state cannot send his National Guard to prevent the stealing of elections if he chooses," Browning said.

"A number of people in Shelby county (Memphis) urged me to send troops for the election. Out of deference to their pleas for protection, so they may vote and have their ballots counted, I asked that part of the National Guard be held in the state until after the election."

The troops were mobilized at Nashville, Knoxville, and Jackson. Three machine gun companies, nine rifle companies, a howitzer company, three headquarters companies, and a service company were assembled.

Bayonet Rule Charged.

Mayor Watkins Overton of Memphis, who is allied with Crump against the governor, today charged that Browning "seeks to perpetuate himself in power at the point of a bayonet."

Browning and Crump were political partners two years ago, when the Memphis boss threw the support of his organization to the governor. They split a year ago over state patronage.

Crump is supporting Prentice Cooper of Shelbyville against the governor, who is seeking renomination.

Seized When Fire Escape Alarm Sounds at Hotel

Andrew Ryan, night manager of the Parkway hotel, 2100 Lincoln Park West, ran into the alley of the hotel early today when he heard the fire escape alarm. The alarm is sounded when the bottom stairs of the escape are lowered. He found Charles A. Graf, 24 years old, 2120 North Clark street, near by. As he started to question Graf, Lincoln Park policemen Joseph Longo and Robert Donner drove up. They, too, had heard the alarm. Graf fled when he saw the policemen. Longo, Donner, and Ryan pursued and caught Graf in front of 2200 Cleveland avenue. He will be held for investigation.

SEES G. O. P. SWING IN SOUTH DAKOTA; PLANNERS ARRIVE

Program Chiefs Meet in Chicago Today.

BY PARKE BROWN.

One of the most glowing and most definite forecasts of Republican gains in the next congress that will be heard during the midsummer conference of G. O. P. planners was made yesterday by J. D. Coon, chairman of the Republican state committee of South Dakota. The conference opens today in Chicago.

"South Dakota," he said, "may be a small state comparatively, but it can and will do as much as any big state this year in the senatorial election. It will elect a Republican senator to replace a Democrat. And it will also cut down the Democratic total in the house by electing a Republican from the 1st district to take over a seat now held by a Democrat. At the same time it will elect another Republican governor."

Back in Column by 1940.
"With that victory, won, South Dakota in 1940 will be all the way back in the Republican column."

Chairman Coon is in Chicago in connection with the meeting of the program committee of the Republican national committee of which Dr. Glenn Frank is chairman.

Coon supports his optimism about the prospects in his home state with a stream of figures.

In 1930 the state elected a Democrat, W. J. Bulow, to the senate and in 1932 it went for Roosevelt by 84,000 and elected Democrats from both its congressional districts. Tom Berry, Democrat, was elected governor by about the Roosevelt margin, but in 1934 Berry's reelection edge dropped to 53,000.

In 1936 the Roosevelt 1932 plurality of 84,000 dropped to 34,000—a loss of 50,000—and Senator Bulow won re-election by only 5,000 votes over J. Chandler (Chas.) Gurney. Gurney is the Republican nominee this year.

In 1936 also, Gov. Berry, seeking a third term, was defeated by Leslie Jensen by 9,000 votes. At the same time a Republican, Francis H. Case, won the congressional seat from the 2d district, a place he is expected to win again this year.

Cites Big Republican Vote.
Chairman Coon said that in the primaries last May the total Republican vote on the senate was 104,999, in contrast to the 73,500 recorded by the Democrats.

In the Democratic senatorial primary former Gov. Berry defeated Senator Herbert E. Hitchcock, his own appointee to the Norbeck vacancy two years ago, and one of the present Democratic congressmen, Fred H. Hildebrandt.

Karl Mundt, former national head of the Izaak Walton league, is opposing Emil Loricks, Democrat, state president of the Farmers' union, for congress in the first district. In the governor race, Harland Bushfield is opposing Oscar Fosheim, a state representative.

Tokio War Chiefs Confer

berian-Manchukuan border since Japan's conquest of China's Manchurian provinces in 1931-33 brought her troops face to face with those of Russia.

The incidents have consisted of invasions by troops, attacks by gunboats, tanks, and planes. Russia has charged similar encroachments by Japanese.

Major incidents included the fighting in 1935 by Japanese-Manchukuan units with Soviet Mongolian troops for the Lake Buir region of northwestern Manchukuo. One of the most serious incidents was in July, 1937, when gunboats and troops were in conflict over the sandy islands of Sennufo and Bolshoi in the Amur river. After five days of tension, however, an agreement for mutual evacuation of the disputed area was reached to allow discussions on demarcation of the frontier.

Locale of Many Clashes. The region of the present clash—at the junction of the borders of Korea, Manchukuo, and Siberia—has been the locale of many conflicts between Japanese-Manchukuan and Russian troops. Another region of frequent conflict has been the Ussuri river near Khabarovsk. On July 23 a Japanese party was reported to have landed on the Soviet island of Faingov near Khabarovsk.

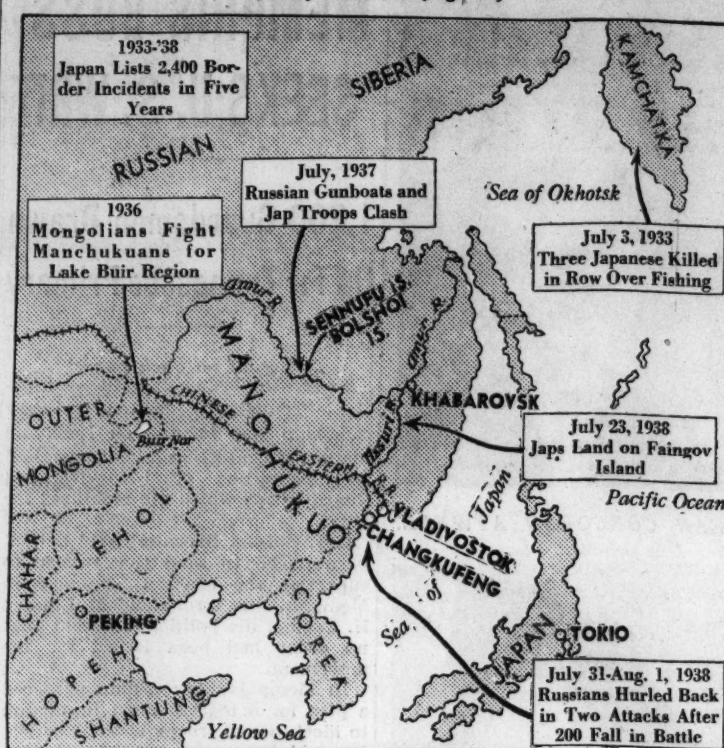

Numerous other disputes and reprisals have added to the tension between Russia and Japan. After Japan occupied Manchuria, many Russian employees of the Chinese Eastern railway were arrested. Russia owned the railway jointly with China. Finally the conflict was settled when Russia sold its half interest in the railroad to Manchukuo for $48,000,000.

Japan recently has been angered by the Russian practice of closing its consulates in Manchukuo and forcing the Japanese to close an equal number in Russia and Siberia.

Long Wrangle Over Fishing. A perpetual sore point has been Russia's yearly haggling over granting Japanese fishing rights in the Okhotsk sea and Russian waters off

Japanese today reported Soviet Russians suffered 200 casualties in a battle for positions in the region where the borders of Siberia, Manchukuo, and Korea meet. Captions on map indicate the principal points of Soviet and Japanese conflict in five years of tension in the far east.

Kamchatka peninsula and the Russian half of Sakhalin Island. Japan has sought a long term fisheries treaty, but Russia has been granting only yearly extensions since 1928.

In recent years the Russians have seized numerous Japanese fishing boats and their crews. In one incident on July 3, 1933, three Japanese fishermen were killed. In reprisal Japan seized a number of Soviet vessels which were driven by storms to seek shelter in Japanese fortified zones or driven aground in restricted areas.

German Flyer Reaches N.Y. on Round the World Flight

New York, July 31.—[Special.]—Capt. Hans Bertram of the German air service arrived in New York today by plane from San Francisco on a round-the-world trip by commercial planes. He is now sixteen days out of Berlin, moving east to west. He expects to land in Berlin nineteen days and twenty-one hours after leaving tonight on the Luftansa catapult plane Nordwind. He is "jumping the gun" somewhat by his use of the Nordwind, however, since it is not yet listed for regularly scheduled passenger flights.

JAPANESE ROUT THREE DIVISIONS OF CHINESE ARMY

SHANGHAI, July 31.—(P)—Japanese forces attempting to drive deep into Kiangsi province from fallen Kiukiang were reported today to have shattered three Chinese divisions in twenty-four hours.

A Japanese army spokesman said the action took place a few miles southwest of Kiukiang, the river port 135 miles down the Yangtze from Hankow, Chinese provisional capital. Fourteen miles southeast of Kiukiang is Kuling, mountain resort refuge of 150 foreigners, including more than fifty Americans, and thousands of Chinese.

Though this haven apparently is isolated by bitter fighting below the mountain, Chinese announced plans to evacuate their countrymen from the resort and from Nanchang, 100 miles south of Kiukiang. Chinese asserted their airmen had attacked Japanese warships near Hukow, fifteen miles down the Yangtze from Kiukiang, and in Lake Poyang, damaging several.

SOLDIERS KILL 8 OF ARAB BAND IN HOLY LAND CLASH

JERUSALEM, July 31.—(P)—British troops killed eight Arabs and wounded many others today when the soldiery contacted a roving band in the Jordan river valley as Jewish-Arab clashes for the 26th successive day kept the Holy Land in a ferment.

Casualties for July totaled 201 killed and 473 wounded. Halfa tonight was heavy with tension after a bomb was tossed into a café, but without inflicting any injuries. Earlier a bomb was thrown at a crowded bus descending Mount Carmel hill. It killed a Jewish woman and injured 11 others.

BRITISH TROOPS SENT TO QUELL RELIGIOUS RIOTS IN MANDALAY

RANGOON, Burma, July 31.—(P)—

British troops were ordered today to quell a spread of religious rioting between Buddhist and Indian Moslems.

Nine new deaths today in clashes in Mandalay raised the toll of a week's violence to 67 wounded. The rioting started when a book, since withdrawn, was published by Moslems and interpreted by Buddhists as offensive to their faith.

HITLER TURNS HIS BACK TO CZECH FLAG IN PARADE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BRESLAU, Germany, July 31.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler turned his back today when the Czechoslovak flag was carried past him while he reviewed 200,000 German athletes from all over the world in the closing spectacle of a gymnastic festival in Breslau. The Czechoslovak colors were carried at the head of a delegation of Sudeten German gymnasts.

UMPIRE IN CZECH ROW WITH NAZIS FACES TOUGH JOB

Runciman Ready to Stay for a Long Time.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 31.—Viscount Runciman, former president of the British Board of Trade, expects his intervention between the Czech government and the Sudeten German minority to be no quick task, it was disclosed today. He has made reservations for a month at Prague's palatial Hotel Alcron and has notified the management he wants an opinion for a second month.

His layout is going to be as expensive as a small size corporation. One whole hotel wing—15 rooms—has been reserved. Four rooms will be used as business offices. The remainder will be the living quarters of Runciman and his wife and the six British experts who will assist him. There also will be a staff of typists, office boys, and personal servants, most of whom he is bringing with him from England.

Some members of the unofficial mission are expected in Prague tomorrow and by Wednesday the party should be complete, including Runciman himself.

Awaiting the arrival of the "investigator and mediator," negotiations between the government and the Sudeten German (Nazi) party have been suspended. Various governmental committees, however, continue working on the minorities laws and have announced that the first two sections of the legislation are in final form. These sections define the nationality status and the language law. Work on the third and most important section—the law for administrative reform—continues, but its com-

Queen of Charity

LILLIAN BARICA.

Nine thousand Chicagoans of Czech and Slovak descent saw Miss Lillian Barica crowned queen of charity last night at the Slovak national day celebration in Pilsen park. Miss Barica, who is 17 years old, lives at 1500 North Springfield avenue. Proceeds of the celebration will go to the Slovak American Charities association, headed by Joseph Domko. The program of addresses and music was in charge of John Kubicek.

pletion is not expected until next week.

However, the general lines of the proposition for local self-government are known. It proposes creation of three provincial parliaments, called diets, for the three western provinces—Bohemia, Moravia, and Slovakia. The fourth and easternmost province of Carpathian Ruthenia is considered a special problem in itself and entitled to special treatment under the treaty of St. Germain.

The St. Germain treaty, signed Sept. 10, 1919, by the allied and associated powers, defined the boundaries of the nations of Central Europe after the world war, including an area between Czechoslovakia and Poland which has since been partitioned by agreement.

Diet Within a Diet.
All members of these diets would be elected by direct suffrage, each nationality group being entitled to deputies in proportion to the population. Thus the diet of Bohemia would have 40 German members out of a total of 120. But within each diet the deputies of each nationality will constitute a body by themselves called the "curia." It will choose executive committees which will be occupied exclusively with affairs pertaining to their own language group.

The most difficult point to arrange is that of fixing the limits of the legislative powers between these diets and the central government in Prague on the one hand and between the diets and the curias within the diets on the other.

BALKAN ENTENTE VOIDS LIMIT ON BULGARIAN ARMY

SOFIA, Bulgaria, July 31.—(AP)—Surprised Bulgarians tonight learned joyfully that the Balkan entente states had agreed to cancelation of post-war treaty limitations on Bulgaria's army.

The news came with the arrival of fifty army planes which dropped leaflets over the capital to announce that Premier John Metaxas of Greece, on behalf of the Balkan entente, and Premier George Visselvanoff of Bulgaria had signed a new pact at Salonika, Greece.

"The war causes no longer exist," the leaflets proclaimed. "This great success is due to the wise leadership of King Boris III, who accomplished it in the proper way at the proper time."

An official communique indicated the new pact had paved the way for closer relationship of Bulgaria with the Balkan entente states—Turkey, Greece, Yugoslavia, and Rumania. The agreement also included a military nonaggression clause between Bulgaria and members of the Balkan entente and was considered in some Bulgarian diplomatic circles as a step toward Bulgaria's entrance into the entente.

SPANISH TROOPS DEADLOCKED IN TWO DAY BATTLE

Rebels' Army Holds Firm Before Gandesa.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], July 31.—(AP)—Repeated attacks and counterattacks by rebel forces failed today to break a two day deadlock on the Catalan front.

Both forces pitted all their available strength in a duel on the government's newly won 25 mile line. Each apparently was attempting to strike decisively at some vulnerable point and drive the other into defensive tactics.

Rebel Generalissimo Francisco Franco's line—as strong as he could make it with reinforcements of men and guns—held before Gandesa, which for months has been the nerve center of his defenses along the Ebro river.

Front Extends 25 Miles.
The front still extended about 25 miles west of the Ebro, from the Mequenza mountains, north of Fayon, to the Pandos mountains, south of Gandesa, with the government holding the area formed by an elbow of the river to the east.

Heaviest fighting was in two sectors, along the Gandesa communications line in lower Catalonia and in Aragon, gateway to Aragon province from central Catalonia.

Rebel air raiders intensified their attacks on government towns. Five bombers attacked Reus and two minutes later another squadron bombed Hospitalet, taking an undetermined number of victims.

Aleante Routs Air Raiders.
Rebel air raids were attempted three times on Alicante, Mediterranean port, but each time the bombers were chased away by government pursuit planes.

BOY DOES A CORRIGAN ON HIS BICYCLE AND LANDS 150 MILES AWAY

Bicycling didn't seem to make Carl Dietrich Jr. as tired as usual. Carl, who's 13 years old, kept on riding. By the time he did get tired he was in Sheboygan Falls, Wis., 150 miles from his home at 2524 North Major avenue. He went to visit his uncle there.

Carl's parents wondered why he didn't come home, since he left at 10 a. m. Saturday. They telephoned to the uncle's home yesterday and found that Carl had just arrived—hungry. He said he wanted to be like Douglas Corrigan, the trans-Atlantic flyer.

"After a hearty meal Carl made a perfect three point landing—in bed," Carl's uncle, Peter Jesky, told Mr. Dietrich over the phone.

The flood filled Ebro is joined by the Matarrana river, indicated Franco feared the government might use the Matarrana valley as a high road to rich rebel towns west of Gandesa.

Gandesa itself remained a no man's land, but the government seemed to be concentrating on closing a pincer behind the city.

ITALIANS DEFEND RACIAL DOCTRINE; CALL IT BIOLOGY

Insist Jews Will Not Be Persecuted.

ROME, July 31.—(AP)—The Fascist racial campaign dominated Sunday newspapers here today.

All continued to publish great headlines on Premier Mussolini's statement at Forli yesterday in which he made known his determination to "march straight ahead" with the policy which holds Italians are of the Aryan race and that Jews are not.

Some commentators stressed the idea that Italian racial doctrine was based on biological theory instead of religious or moral grounds.

This was regarded as an effort to combat the impression created by Pope Pius' query last week "why in the world Italy unfortunately felt the need to imitate Germany?"

Many papers published articles by scientists justifying the policy, and at the same time gave emphasis to unfavorable foreign comment, apparently the purpose of stimulating Italian patriotic feelings.

The newspaper, Regime Fascista, published by Roberto Farinacci, former Fascist party secretary, which

CORRIGAN ON LINER BOUND FOR NEW YORK STUDIES NAVIGATION

New York, July 31.—(AP)—Douglas Corrigan, the flyer who landed in Ireland when he thought he was headed for California, admitted tonight he still rated a mark of zero in his navigation.

Speaking from the liner Manhattan over a radio hookup, the skipper of the "Corrigan Clipper" said he was studying navigation under the ship's captain, but hadn't won much praise.

"I got a look through the sextant this morning," said the flyer. "I saw the sun all right, but I didn't know how to figure out where I was afterward." The Manhattan, bearing the California Irishman home from Ireland, is due Thursday in New York.

THE CONDUCTORS LOOK AT LIFE ON THE OWL TRAINS

Here's What They Think of the Tippy Ladies.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.
(Pictures on back page.)

Women are the worry of a Saturday night conductor's life. When they board the owl cars to go home after a tour of taverns anything can happen. And does.

This is the conclusion of trainmen who have watched merry-makers stumble homeward for many years. And it was supported by the observations of a reporter and a candid camera man who rode the dawn elevated and street cars and suburban trains.

Tippy Males Mostly Gentle.
A man is different. He lurches aboard and relaxes. He hoists his feet onto the opposite seat and gets arranged. His head comes to rest cozily on the nearest shoulder. His hat slips off. His mouth opens. He sleeps.

Not so a woman. The later it is the more wakeful and active she becomes. She stalks into the car, every inch a lady. Though her head may weave suspiciously, she sits upright and prim. She searches the faces of fellow passengers and is easily affronted by what she sees. A smile is an insult and a wink may be rude.

And she rides tirelessly, the conductors agree. Even after she has rumbled to the end of the line, she dares the conductor to put her off.

This observer was inclined to agree with the trainmen who say that girls are a problem. They are moody, troublesome, amorous. One minute they are caressing their boy friends; the next moment they are crying. Then they may be threatening to jump out of the car. All this while the men sleep.

Can't Get Rid of Some.

"If they'd only doze off," lamented one discouraged conductor on the northbound elevated. "Often we take them clear downstairs so they won't stumble and fall on the tracks, and like as not they'll turn right around and follow us back up."

But, the owl car reporter found, there is another kind of woman who rides the early morning cars, apparently unappreciated by the conductors. They are the human pillows, those tolerant, sacrificial women who lend their shoulders to their husbands and friends.

The happiest day in the week of the conductor is Sunday.

NEGRO ADMITS ANNOYING LITTLE GIRL AND WOMAN

Policeman John O'Connell of the Hyde Park station last night caught the annoyance of a small girl and a woman. O'Connell was on detail at the home of James B. McCahey, 4850 Greenwood avenue, president of the school board, when he heard a radio report telling of a man molesting a girl near 4727 Ingleside avenue. O'Connell sped to the scene, where he nabbed William Jackson, 19, colored, of 4359 Wabash avenue. A short time earlier Jackson attempted to follow a woman into her home at 4746½ Drexel boulevard. Both the girl and the woman identified Jackson. He also confessed, police said.

CHICAGAN DROWNS IN KANSAS CITY.
Jacob N. B. Mayer, 31 years old, 2837 Normandy avenue, a railway mail clerk, was drowned yesterday while swimming in the Klamath park pool, Kansas City, Mo. He had arrived in Kansas City at 7 a. m. and was to have left at 11 p. m.

TWO ARRESTED AS STOPLIGHT BANDIT SUSPECTS

Frank Labak, 21 years old, 2519 South Albany avenue, and Alex Kugawa, 25, of 2142 South Albany avenue, were arrested early today by Sgt. Edward McBride and a Cragin police squad shortly after they had allegedly held up Charles Romano, 915 Logan street, Hammond, Ind.

Romano said the two got into his car at a stoplight at Addison street and Ashland avenue. They drove him, he said, to Harlem and Chicago avenues, Forest Park. The car stalled there. Labak and Kugawa alighted and walked away, Romano said, and he was soon able to start the car again. He drove to Harlem and Bloomingdale avenues, in the Cragin district, where he met McBride's squad.

The policemen found the suspects at Harlem avenue and Randolph street, Forest Park.

FOG SLOWS MOTOR TRAFFIC.
Heavy fog covered the outlying and county areas of Chicago early today. Morton Grove, Willow Springs, and Homewood county highway police all reported fog. It was heaviest in the north and northwest. Traffic was light, but appreciably slowed down.

1,500 FOLLOWERS OF FATHER DIVINE PARADE IN N. Y.

(Picture on back page.)
New York, July 31.—[Special.]—Fifteen hundred of Father Divine's followers marched through Harlem and the lower west Bronx today, while several hundred others rode in automobiles and buses in a parade. Father Divine rode in his big automobile with the top down so his "children" could see his smiling face and the pepper and salt suit and white hat he wore. It was announced that Father Divine would delay improving his new Hudson river estate, Crum Elbow, opposite President Roosevelt's Hyde Park home, in the hope of legislation easing taxes. "Crum Elbow is now owned by my followers," said Father Divine. "You are God," shouted the followers.

MERKERS, Germany, July 31.—(AP)—Eleven persons died yesterday when they were overcome by gas in a potash works.

SEEK TWO HANDBOOK BANDITS DOOMED TO DIE BY UNDERWORLD

Two suspected handbook robbers marked for death are being sought by state's attorney police in an effort to save their lives, it was revealed last night. They were involved with two other men, already murdered, according to unofficial reports.

Capt. Dan Gilbert, chief investigator, refused to name the doomed bandits. His men visited several north side spots recently in a vain search for the pair.

They recently held up a handbook, getting $3,300. This holdup, plus previous ones, infuriated the operators. They decided, it was reported, to wipe out the robbers. Within a few weeks two men were slain. They were Harry Minor and John O'Brien. At the time police attributed Minor's death to handbook trouble, but ascribed O'Brien's to possible love rivalry. The underground information, one detective admitted last night, is that both murders were the outgrowth of the robberies.

PLANES SCAN NEW OCEAN AREA FOR MISSING CLIPPER

MANILA, Aug. 1.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Searching forces today moved toward the only unscanned area near where the Hawaii Clipper supposedly disappeared Friday as hope of finding the giant flying boat and its 15 occupants all but vanished.

Four planes swept over the open sea as far as 100 miles east of where the clipper radioed her last position, 500 miles east of Manila, before mysteriously dropping from sight. Two navy amphibian planes and two heavy armed bombers joined in searching the new area, indicating the belief of searchers that the clipper, en route here from Guam, may have swung sharply off her course after last reporting.

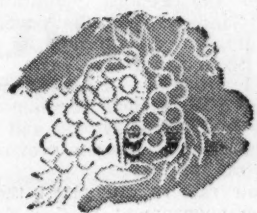

Midday reports, which said nothing had been found, omitted mention of a big oil slick, which was discovered Saturday by the army transport, Meigs, fifty miles from the plane's last reported position. The slick, found to contain lubricating oil and gasoline, was believed to have been broken up by wind and swells.

Recluse, 40, Beaten to Death on Michigan Chicken Farm

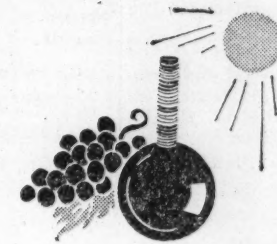

Algonac, Mich., July 31.—[Special.]—Augustus W. Roll, a bachelor recluse 40 years old, was found slain today on his small chicken farm four miles west of Algonac. He had been beaten to death with a hoe. Robbery, apparently was the motive. State police were unable to find between $400 and $500 he habitually kept in his pockets or secreted in his home.

Autumn Wine

Rich new shade in which you salute the coming season

The profligate beauty of autumn vineyards is in our fall color "Autumn Wine". Its rich, deep tone is very new. It's slated for great importance in the coming season of Victorian elegance and French Court splendor. We've used it for your most important silhouettes and fashion highlights of Fall 1938... costumes with bloused backs, Mid-Victorian fitted jackets, Molyneux' swing back, Alix' collarless neckline, the new wrist-length suit coat of Mainbocher, the "leg-o-mutton" sleeves of Schiaparelli. "Autumn Wine" is superb with your blacks, the perfect drumbeat with other new colors of fall.

DOMINION KEEPS BULL'S ACCOUNTS IN BANKS TIED UP

Hunts Deposits Traceable
to Mrs. Sidley's Estate.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
TORONTO, Ont., July 31.—(Special.)—The bank accounts of W. Perkins Bull, lawyer and capitalist, and all the Canadian funds in the estate of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, Racine malted milk heiress, now are "frozen" by order of the inheritance tax department of the dominion government. This was confirmed here today by agents of the department.

Bull has been unable to cash any checks upon any of the dominion banks for weeks, and it is known that drafts for small amounts given to tradesmen for various services have been returned with notice that they cannot be cashed. Bull's repeated protests against this order have been ignored.

The attention of dominion accountants has been directed particularly to a comparison of Mrs. Sidley's withdrawals during the final months of her life with deposits said to have been made to Bull's credit.

Seek to Tax Death Gifts.
The investigators are making the comparison in order to learn what sums can be considered death gifts and therefore taxable under the dominion's strict inheritance regulations.

Testimony given by John Moore, chauffeur for Mrs. Sidley during the last year of her life, at the brief inquest hearing last Tuesday, indicated the eccentric heiress often scribbled checks for large sums and distributed them among members of the Bull household, where she was a guest for a year before her death.

Presumably the government is interested in tracing these gifts, in determining their number and the total amount of money that changed hands as a result of her generosity. This phase of the inquiry has not been confined to Bull's accounts, it became known today.

Scan Secretary's Account.
The bank statements of Richard Crosson, former commercial artist who became Bull's private secretary about six months ago, are among others that are being studied, treasury agents acknowledged today.

Crosson's bank balance here is said to show a very large deposit made as a result of a gift from Mrs. Sidley about two weeks before she died.

This deposit and others may be taxed, the agents said. They also declared that the bank transactions of most of the other persons close to Mrs. Sidley will be examined. The reports on Bull's and Crosson's records have been completed and are to be given to Attorney General Gordon Conant on Tuesday.

These bank studies were begun on July 9, three days after Mrs. Sidley died in Toronto. They were started in conjunction with the police investigation into her death, instituted at the same time.

You save on every purchase!
AUGUST SALE OF FURNITURE

Reductions on our entire stock

Field's is the logical place to buy your furniture for these convincing reasons:

1. You can choose from thousands of different pieces of furniture (covering considerably more than a square block) in an enormous variety of styles, woods and finishes. It's easier to make up your mind when you can make your selections all in one place.

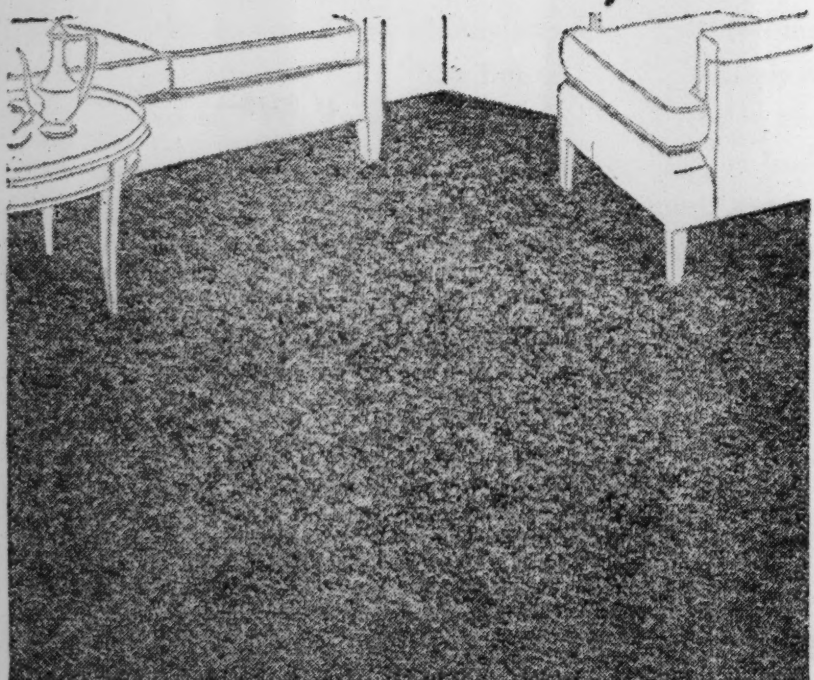

2. You can buy within your budget at Field's! No matter how little or how much you have to spend, you can afford Field quality. This is a priceless advantage in selecting furniture, where satisfaction largely depends on the store's reliability.

3. You may pay for purchases of $40 or more by using our convenient extended payment plan; a moderate down payment and the balance budgeted over a period of months, with a small carrying charge. This enables you to take full advantage of worthwhile savings by buying in August.

4. You save substantially on every purchase you make during August. In addition to the scores of wonderful values bought especially for August and priced extremely low, every single piece of furniture in stock shows a reduction.

ACCORDIONS AND DRUMS SWING TO NEW HEIGHTS

Music Men, Not to Say the Rest of Us, Are Startled.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Two musical instruments heretofore regarded as lowly and rather unlovely have sprung into prominence during the last year. One is the drum. The other is the accordion.

The drum's rebirth is the result of swing music, music men at the 37th annual Music Industries convention at the Stevens hotel said. But nobody knows how to explain the rise of the accordion although 100,000 of them were sold last year.

The accordion is used in swing music, but that hardly accounts, its makers say with pride, for Jascha Heifetz's interest in it. Or Mussolini's, Doris Duke's, or the duke of Windsor's. Tito Schipa plays it for relaxation, and Mrs. Phil Wrigley plays it, too.

Can't Be Explained.

"You just can't explain it," a representative said, "except that maybe people like to sway to that." The modern accordion is not purely a musical bellows like those of ancient make. It is known as a piano-accordion, with piano keys for the right hand and chord buttons for the left. You can buy a nice one, that sounds like a clarinet, cello, bassoon, piccolo, and organ all in one, for $1,500.

Drums, too, are no longer purely drums. The drummer, once relegated to the far back corner of the dance orchestra, now has the front row to himself.

To cope with this he may need a variety of drums that would put the Marine band to shame. A model trap drum outfit on display contains a bass drum, a snare drum, eight tunable tom-toms (small drums with a hollow, mournful sound), a size cymbal (sound of frying chicken), a sock cymbal, and four temple blocks (sound of rattling peas).

A Scene Sort of Madness.

In Dixieland drumming, the present vogue, an ex-drummer explained, the drummer is supposed to hit every kind of an instrument at once. "That means you go mad," he said, "without moving a muscle on your face." An electric light within the bass drum, once high fashion, now is considered bad taste. "That's corny," the official said in horror. "You know, very McGeehee, very passé. Old fashioned, you know."

Instead, he said, the drum frames are decorated in rich color. Very important," he said seriously. The model set, which can be bought for $750, illustrated this. Its frame was brilliant, sparkling sapphire.

UNITED GERMAN MALE CHORUS TO SING AT FESTIVAL

One thousand members of the United German Male chorus of Chicago will sing two songs at the ninth Chicago-Land Music Festival, to be held Saturday night, Aug. 20, in Soldiers' field. This will be the largest organized year-round singing group ever to appear on a festival program. The first number will be a song in German; the second will be "America."

The chorus is directed by Ludwig Lohmiller, assisted by H. A. Rehberg. Weekly rehearsals are being held throughout the city. The deadline for all entries in the festival contests is next Monday at 6 p. m.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

INCognito
By CALEB

A FAMOUS VIOLINIST once donned false beard, dark glasses and a ragged coat to stand for hours and play on the corner of a busy city street.

A few scattered coins rewarded his efforts—but not one single passer-by paused to absorb the technique, marvelous tone, and interpretive skill that thousands had paid top prices to hear each season for decades. Fine music minus a great hall and advance publicity simply failed to click.

A similar fate recently befell a group of famous paintings hung without announcement or comment among those done by students and unknown artists for an outdoor art exhibit. All but a few spectators lumped them mentally with other paintings that ranged in quality from good to immature.

Disappointing as these things are, a far more poignant and distressing oversight is the failure to discover the possibilities for fine achievement in the people about us. Like the brush strokes of a master or the bowing of a great violinist, these often are obscured and forever lost in the noise of a busy street and the press of everyday affairs.

It is far easier currently to diagnose a man's physical ills and prescribe reasonably adequate cures than it is to analyze his mental processes and personality and prescribe a path that will lead him to happiness and success. But gradually the methods and data upon which to base such an approach are being established.

To its other contributions of a constructive sort American business is adding that of a steadily better technique in vocational choice and guidance. We have been able in our store to make some advances in these lines—and we look forward to more headway as time goes on. Of course, it is to our own advantage to choose the right people for the right jobs here. At the same time, only through the development of an adequate technique of evaluating them can we afford each of our people the fullest opportunity to increase his own usefulness, income and happiness.

We believe that such a goal is worth while both for ourselves and our employees, and a considerable effort accordingly is being made along those lines.

WHAT DOES TVA
POWER COST THE
U. S. TAXPAYER?Committee Is Expected to Hunt Out Facts.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., July 31.—(Special.)—The investigating committee is expected this week to delve into the conflicting hydroelectric power and flood control phases in the Tennessee Valley authority's operation of its vast chain of dams and reservoirs.

The question of how much a TVA kilowatt actually costs the tax payers of America has been touched on only slightly in the hearings of the last two weeks, but the investigators are agreed that it is a basic issue.

Members of the committee today fervently expressed the hope that the charges and counter charges between TVA directors, past and present, have been exhausted. They trust now that they can begin digging into the fundamental question of the TVA yardstick, set up to measure fair rates for current private industry.

Dr. Morgan has testified that control of the water in the reservoirs is a vital matter. On this hinges a main question: How much of the cost of the TVA social experiment, which in its ultimate stages is to cost half a billion dollars, is to be charged to navigation, how much to power, how much to flood control?

The elemental problem is this: For flood control a reservoir needs to be empty in flood time to catch the flood waters, while for hydroelectric power the reservoirs need to be kept filled. Water already over the dam produces no kilowatts. Reservoirs which are kept filled in order to get a power head at the dams accentuate the runoff at flood time.

Dr. Morgan has charged that at one time the TVA, against his strong opposition, placed the control of the runoff of water at Norris and Wilson dams in the hands of the electrical operation department. This department is concerned more with kilowatts than flood control or navigation. Later the TVA changed its policy and adopted Dr. Morgan's idea. It put control of storage and release of water in the hands of a water control engineer.

Ready to Dig Into Issue.
Dr. Morgan has testified to the tendency of the power phase to encroach on flood control. This is to be examined by the investigators. Representative Charles Wolverton (R., N. J.) has declared at the hearings that he is primed to dig into this.

"In flood control dams," said Dr. Morgan, "the flood control space, storage space, wants to be empty when the flood comes. It needs to stay empty year after year, except during flood periods, with certain limitations. For power, storage wants to be full all the time as far as possible, so if the dry season comes you will have saved all the water possible. There is a constant tendency to encroach upon flood control for power, because your average flood control storage area is lying empty year after year."

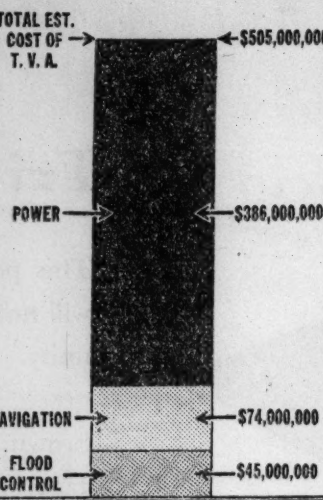

"It may not be needed for 20 years, but when it is needed this storage space is very much needed. Flood control above Norris dam is cheap and effective, but when you assign it for flood control and pay for it as flood control and then you begin to fudge on it and use it for power you are worse off than if you did not have it, so far as flood control is concerned."

Considers Question Vital.
"Flood control storage ought to be sacred to flood control storage. To encroach upon that flood control for power is a great danger."

Dr. Morgan, who built the flood control system in Ohio after the

TVA Cost Distribution

(Story in adjoining column.)

Army engineers have held that dams suitable for a navigable channel in the Tennessee river could be built for $74,709,000. They also held that the interest from a 45 million dollar fund would pay the annual flood damages in the Tennessee valley. Public utilities have held that the difference between the sum of these two items and the half billion dollar estimated cost of TVA is the cost of TVA power to the public.

Dayton flood, has charged that although he was the only member of the TVA board experienced in water control, action on that phase of activities was taken in his absence by directors David Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan.

When the TVA started off in 1933, power development was the big work. The valley was the scene of a great battle between public ownership and private ownership. In many speeches TVA officials said power was the major objective. Later the TVA began throwing emphasis on navigation and flood control.

Recall Engineers' Figures.

Development of navigation on the Tennessee by the federal government has been going on for more than a hundred years. Army engineers figured in 1930 that for adequate navigation purposes low head dams could be built at a cost of $74,709,000 to give a 9 foot channel from Paducah to Knoxville.

The engineers took the position that if power potentialities were to be realized, the cost of the hydro development would be the expense in excess of the 74 million cost of low dams.

The army engineers also held that flood damages in the Tennessee valley, including tributaries and the so-called 500 year floods, averaged only around $1,784,000. This loss, analysts have declared, could have been repaid by the proceeds from a fund of 45 million dollars set aside at 4 per cent interest. Thus, public utilities have held, 74 million dollars for navigation by low dams and 45 million for flood damage justify an expenditure of about 120 million dollars by the TVA on these two items.

Over Half a Billion.

This is in contrast to the 505 million dollars, the ultimate estimated cost of the TVA, the power from which is to be only a "byproduct," the TVA maintaining that its real constitutional purpose in life is flood control and navigation.

The volume of navigation on the Tennessee is to be considered by the investigators this week. At present the river traffic is said to consist largely of movement of sand, gravel, and other commodities used by the federal government and the TVA.

ROMANCE
DIES WITH THESE ILLS!

Don't let your marriage be ruined by a venereal disease, but see your physician or this clinic!

Many a promising marriage has ended miserably because of an unsuspected venereal infection. For untreated gonorrhea is the principal cause of sterility —the reason for childless homes, while untreated syphilis is responsible for most stillborn, deformed and feeble-minded babies!

In addition to making it difficult if not impossible to have healthy children, venereal diseases are the cause of many other tragedies. Neglected gonorrhea, for example, can cripple you with arthritis, lead to a sight-destroying eye infection, or result in serious prostate, bladder, kidney and other troubles. And neglected syphilis can deprive you of sight or hearing, disable you with heart disease, lay you low with paralysis, or bring on a nervous breakdown that may end in insanity!

Because a venereal infection can be contracted innocently, it would be a wise thing for every married couple to be examined for gonorrhea and syphilis, either by a private physician or the Public Health Institute. Each patient of the Institute is promptly and individually attended in a private room, and to avoid embarrassment is identified by number instead of by name. To date, the Institute's skilled men and women physicians have given more than 5,000,000 examinations and treatments for venereal diseases!

Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, the Public Health Institute puts specialized venereal disease treatment within the reach of those with small incomes. A thorough examination for gonorrhea and syphilis, including blood tests, urinalysis and smears, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less. Even those temporarily pressed for funds can make arrangements to be treated!

PRE-MARRIAGE
EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, and with both men and women physicians in attendance, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including all necessary laboratory tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. (at 159 or 169 N. Dearborn St.) can have certificates same day.

DOES YOUR SCALP

ITCH?

Beware of Baldness!

YOUR Scalp doesn't itch just to irritate you. It itches because some local infection is attacking your hair-growing structure. You can stop the itching temporarily with surface lotions or frequent shampooing, but unless you determine exactly which of the 14 local scalp ills is causing the itch, and then overcome that trouble, you are sure to become bald.

A Thomas expert will gladly examine your scalp and advise you as to the exact cause of your scalp itch or your abnormal hair-loss. No charge will be made for the scalp examination. He will tell you precisely what Thomas treatment can do to help you save your hair, end scalp itch, overcome dandruff, or re-grow hair on the thin or bald spots. Or if you do not come within the scope of Thomas treatment, you will be frankly told. (The Thomas' are hair experts, and treat only the 14 local scalp conditions which are responsible for about 90% of all cases of baldness.)

Call at a Thomas office today for a free scalp examination. Learn the truth about your scalp. Learn how the reliable Thomas treatment has helped more than a quarter-million other persons save their hair, end dandruff and scalp itch, and—re-grow hair during the past 20 years. NORMA SHEARER REFUSES TO PLAY SCARLETT O'HARA

Fan Mail Protests Cause Actress to Withdraw.

Hollywood, Cal., July 31.—[Special.]—Norma Shearer today announced her withdrawal from the role of Scarlett O'Hara in Margaret Mitchell's "Gone with the Wind," which David O. Selznick is to make as a motion picture.

She attributed her decision to fan mail in which many correspondents said she was unsuited for the part. Miss Shearer reached her decision as the result of a two and a half hour discussion with Ed Sullivan, whose column "Looking at Hollywood" appears daily in this section of THE TRIBUNE. She agreed with Sullivan that the fans had made her a star and she owed it to them to abide by their wishes.

Casting Causes Controversy.
While no mention was made concerning Clark Gable's role as Rhett Butler, it is probable he will remain in that part, provided Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer distributes the film for Selznick International. If this releasing arrangement is not negotiated, however, it is likely another actor will replace Gable.

The casting of Miss Shearer and Gable caused one of the greatest controversies in recent screen history. Their assignment, announced June 23, was followed by many protests from film fans.

Rumors began to circulate that Miss Shearer wanted the script rewritten to make Scarlett a more sympathetic person.

Hepburn Mentioned for Role.
Selznick began to display some apprehension over his choice on the reaction to the actress' performance in "Marie Antoinette." In this picture Miss Shearer portrayed the historically disagreeable queen as a lovable character.

While no word was forthcoming from the Selznick organization on a substitute, Miss Shearer's action again has catapulted Katharine Hepburn into the lead among the candidates for the role. George Cukor, who will direct the film, for months has been holding out for Miss Hepburn.

Plan a Wedding

Dorothy Lamour (right), film star, and her secretary, Charlo Holden.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 31.—[Special.]—If her boss, Dorothy Lamour of the films, is able, Charlo Holden, the star's secretary, will have a bang-up wedding here. Miss Lamour has arranged for the bridegroom, Knowles Smith Jr., to get time off from his job in Cadillac, Mich., and come here for the ceremony. She also will attend the bride and will give the wedding reception if she has fully recovered from an operation for appendicitis. Miss Lamour was resting easy today after a midnight operation. It was not an emergency case.

TRUCK WEIGHERS OF STATE SAVING ROADS AND LIVES

It is routine business for state troopers — saving lives and saving roads by testing the trucks which rumble across Illinois. The trucks are weighed to make sure that they are not carrying loads heavier than the roads can support. Their brakes and tires are tested and they are examined for mechanical defects that might cause serious accidents.

Many tests were made yesterday at the station near Yorkville on U. S. highway 34. Chief Walter Williams of the state police listed 1,843 arrests in his annual report for overload of an axle. There were 71 arrests for exceeding the maximum weight limitations, and 2,772 for exceeding the weight limitations under various license classifications.

RECKLESS DRIVER SET FREE, AND HIS CAR KILLS A MAN

Police Surprised to Find Him Out of Jail.

Police will look up court records today to learn why Richard Calhoun, whose automobile killed a man, was not in the Bridewell Friday night serving out a $100 fine. On that night, driving a car with faulty brakes, he ran down William Bile, a retired lumber salesman. Bile died early yesterday.

The $100 fine was entered June 16 on a charge of reckless driving. If it had been allowed to stand Calhoun would have had to serve 200 days at the rate of 50 cents a day.

Calhoun, who is 21 years old and colored, told police last night: "Judge Stephen Adamowski took the fine off last Tuesday. I had to go before him then because he suspended my rights to drive until July 26. I couldn't have paid the fine."

Policeman Is Surprised.
Policeman William Sexton, a member of the police accident prevention bureau, who arrested Calhoun on June 13, was surprised to learn he was not in the Bridewell. "Calhoun led us on a mile and a half chase, going through eight stop signs," Sexton said.

The next time the accident prevention bureau heard of Calhoun was that he had been arrested again Friday night. This time he was charged with reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Calhoun's car struck Bile in Warren boulevard at Wood street. Calhoun drove on to Hermitage avenue, where he was halted by witnesses.

Policeman Sexton tested Calhoun's brakes and said that a twenty miles an hour the car could not be stopped in less than forty-two feet. The safety requirement is eighteen feet.

Judge Adamowski said last night that he did not remember the case, but that he will ascertain its disposition today.

Bile, who was 71 years old, retired from the lumber business Jan. 1. He lived at 1818 Washington boulevard.

Two Killed in Collision.

John Batters, 17 years old, 1223 Larabee street, and Virgin Aliotti, 18, of 5429 North Mulligan avenue, were killed yesterday when the car in which they were riding was involved in a collision at Higgins road and Melvina

THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1938 Traffic Toll

A speeding motorist ran down one man last evening, and then struck another while escaping from pursuers. The first victim, unidentified, is in the Danish-American hospital. He was crossing North avenue at Pulaski road when struck. Two motorists chased him west and north in Pulaski road. At Armitage avenue, the driver struck Abner Hansen, 945 North Keystone avenue, and went away. Police were tracing the license number of the car.

Mrs. Ruby Collis, 25 years old, was killed in a collision at Look Lake and Deep Lake roads, three miles south of Antioch in Lake county. Mrs. Collis lived at 139 Hazel street, Glenview. Her husband, Lawrence, and the two occupants of the other car were injured.

Burns Fatal to Girl.

Miss Roma Schultz, 20 years old, 5841 North Drake avenue, died yesterday in the Swedish Covenant hospital. She was one of three members of her family burned by flaming gasoline after their parked car was struck early in the day by an automobile which witnesses said was speeding 60 miles an hour.

Police sought Iner Peterson, 8910 Osceola avenue, Niles. His license plates were on the speeding car.

Ten persons were injured, two of them critically, in a head-on collision between an auto and a taxicab in Torrence avenue near 102d street. Those critically injured are Wilbur R. Talcott Jr., 815 East 75th street, and his wife, Ethel. The taxicab was driven by Edward Buckner, 3052 East 91st street.

At 4 p. m. yesterday Cook county's 1938 death toll stood at 475, compared with 593 in the similar period last year. Since Jan. 1, 1938, there have been 366 deaths in Chicago, where 10,848 persons were injured in the same period.

Urge Motorists to Accord Visiting Cars More Courtesy

Chicago drivers were urged yesterday to show extra courtesy to vacation motorists. This plea came from the Greater Chicago Safety council. Visitors may be unfamiliar with many local trade laws.

IN COOLIDGE'S TIME; AND ROOSEVELT'S.

Senator Rush D. Holt of West Virginia, who joined the Conscript Fathers as so young a member that he had to wait for a birthday to come along before he could qualify, says that when Congress meets he will offer a duplicate of the resolution the senate passed in 1928 declaring that a third presidential term was "unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our free institutions."

That resolution was offered by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin after Calvin Coolidge had said that he did not choose to run, and nine of Mr. Roosevelt's best friends in the senate, including Alben Barkley, and Senator Holt's colleague, Mr. Neely of West Virginia, voted for it.

Although Mr. Coolidge had been elected only once as President, he had very definitely set at rest any notion that he might be seeking four more years in the White House. He had come out with a statement, which Mr. Roosevelt has thus far avoided, although Mr. Roosevelt has been twice elected. Mr. Coolidge's announcement was phrased with his Yankee economy in words, but if people doubted him then they didn't later, and in a few years, after Mr. Hoover had taken office, most people agreed that Mr. Coolidge had never been wiser in his life than he was when he made his decision.

Nevertheless the senate was so concerned with the importance of the question that it expressed its sentiments against anything that could be construed as a third term for the chief executive. It backed up the tradition of American government, established by the modest and disciplined sound sense of George Washington and honored in political action ever since.

It is generally conceded that Mr. Roosevelt just now is persuading himself that the time has come when the tradition must yield to national emergencies which will require him to undertake four more years of service. The logic of events forces the conclusion that there will be a national emergency as long as Mr. Roosevelt is President, and that his own reasoning would lead him to favor a life tenure for the present occupant of the White House.

Although the makers of the constitution, trying a great experiment in government as incorporated in the office of President, did not limit the terms, the patriotic mind of Washington perceived that the necessary limitation of great powers must be found in an abridgment of tenure. He set the example which has ever since been followed and which is the great protection which keeps this office from degenerating into autocracy. Thomas Jefferson agreed. Writing to Washington about the new constitution, Jefferson said that one thing he disliked strongly was: "The perpetual reeligibility of the President."

Mr. Holt's resolution would be in order next January and it would serve to bring this question up for early determination.

PREFERRED STOCKS.

The United States Steel corporation, our largest and sometimes designated our leading industrial concern, has declared a third quarter dividend on its preferred stock. Until the announcement was made doubt prevailed as to the action that would be taken because the operations resulted in a loss in both the second and third quarters.

Under the conditions which previously existed two consecutive periods of deficits would have had no effect upon disbursements to the owners of "Big Steel's" senior stock. In 1931 and 1932 dividends without diminution were paid for five periods when the operations were profitless. But this time there was a reason for expecting a cut. The undistributed profits tax offers every inducement to corporations to confine their dividend payments to years of profitable operation. No doubt the improved outlook influenced the action of the directors on Tuesday.

Although the dividend payments have been continued by the United States Steel corporation, there is no doubt that the surplus earnings tax has profoundly affected the status of preferred stocks as a class. This form of security, which has some of the characteristics of a stock and some of the characteristics of a bond, was formerly used widely for senior financing. Many preferred stocks have unbroken records for full dividend payments extending over long periods. This made them well suited to the requirements of such institutional investors as universities, hospitals, and foundations, which are interested primarily in a certain return on their investments. The undistributed earnings tax offers a bonus to corporations which pay out dividends in cash and pay dividends in stock times. The bonus extends to payments on both preferred and common stock. Although dividends on many particular issues have a wide margin of safety, as a class preferred stocks now are subject to hazards which will make many institutional investors wary of them.

Preferred stock dividends stood up well in the worst depression, particularly in the early years of it. If we then had the strange system of taxation which we now have preferred dividends would have been cut generally the first year there was a deficit. The underpinning of preferred stocks by the surplus earnings tax will inevitably raise incomes above what they would otherwise be in fat years, and reduce incomes below what they would otherwise be in lean years. This is just the reverse of filling in the valleys and leveling off the peaks.

MR. BULL AND THE MALTED MILK.

The Canadian courts in Toronto are discovering that if a thing starts in Queer street it keeps getting queer. The courts and several administrative officials in the course of their duty are endeavoring to ascertain if there may be facts of public concern in the death of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, always to be described as the malted milk heiress, and in the making of the will disposing of the extensive estate. Five executors were named, one of them being Mrs. Sidley's brother, William, and another her son, William.

The coroner's inquest has been halted and delayed pending the decision from the courts on a petition by four of the executors for an injunction. The son is not associated with the other four in the petition. He apparently desires that the inquest receive evidence and testimony as to the manner of his mother's death in the home of W. Perkins Bull of Toronto, Mr. Bull being one of the principal beneficiaries of Mrs. Sidley's will.

Chicago's most intimate experience with Mr. W. Perkins Bull, K. C., Canadian barrister, was when he hurried from the United States in an automobile in advance of an effort to have him testify before Master in Chancery James P. Harold in a suit brought by Dr. John S. Sidley, the husband of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, to restrain him and private sleuths from harassing Dr. Sidley. On that occasion Mr. Bull, K. C., smashed his automobile at Coldwater, Mich., was taken to a hospital, and as soon as possible completed the journey to Toronto in an ambulance. His tongue was cut in the accident and he couldn't talk.

Later Mrs. Sidley was granted a divorce from Dr. Sidley in the Circuit court at Kenosha, and subsequently a suit for $250,000 damages brought against W. Perkins Bull, K. C., by Dr. Sidley was settled out of court with the establishment of a comfortable annuity for the doctor by Mrs. Sidley. It is of no consequence in any of the proceedings that Mr. Bull never has been displeased to be found physically resembling Henry VIII.

The crown attorneys have filed nine affidavits answering the four executors and charging that three of Canada's leading brain specialists were sent by William, the son, to consult with the doctors attending Mrs. Sidley before her death and that they were refused permission to see her. Mrs. Sidley's infirmity of mind while she was strangely the guest of the beneficiary, Mr. Bull, in Toronto, was described at the coroner's inquest before it was stopped, by her chauffeur. He said that the lady's windows in the Bull residence were barred and that she was closely confined whenever she was in the house. She was allowed her freedom for long rides, when she was in charge of both the chauffeur and a nurse.

On those rides her conduct was characterized by a desire to keep moving, making as many left turns as possible, and going many places where she would be under the impression that she knew the residents, showing a desire to kiss them, and to give them money. The chauffeur said she was addicted to writing checks for large sums to him, in amounts as high as $10,000. These checks he always turned over to other members of the household. Her prodigality was extended to Mr. Bull, her host, in her will. It will be remembered that Mrs. Sidley's mother died a few days after the daughter.

The objection to a continuance of the inquest is based upon some relation the coroner had in another professional capacity to the other persons involved. Ordinarily an inquest where there were any circumstances surrounding a death indicating more than appeared on the surface, however innocent everybody and everything might eventually prove to be, would be in the regularly accepted process of administration. The mystery of the erratic and infirm Mrs. Sidley and of her relations to the strong minded and realistic Mr. Bull of Toronto is not lessened by the maneuvers of the representatives of the beneficiaries other than the son, William. When a lady of poor health, wandering mind, spontaneous and illogical generosity is involved with a large estate, a determined and strong willed gentleman who is her host for a long period of the normal course of casual hospitality, there will be queer street scenes until the courts have managed to bring the affair into some semblance to a sane world.

Editorial of the Day

NEW YORK LOOKS AT ITS SCHOOLS.
[New York Sun.]

It is a good thing for a city of the size of New York to have its housekeeping arrangements inspected occasionally. This service is performed by the joint committee on education, made up of representatives of civic and welfare organizations who periodically enter the public school buildings, climb the stairs, look for dust in the corners, observe how the children are seated, and give layman judgment of the city's school plant.

The reports of this committee, which come almost every year, have by now a familiar ring: School buildings are too large, play spaces are inadequate, repairs and painting often are neglected, children lack facilities for washing, classes are overcrowded. This year, however, some improvements have been noted: Classes are not quite so crowded as formerly, which is not surprising in view of the drop in school population. Some of the older buildings, despite their lack of repairs, are kept presentable by the work of the janitorial staff. The newer buildings—constructed by an architect who has just been forced out of office by the La Guardia administration—evoked cries of "wonderful" from some of the committee's inspectors.

Of the shortcomings noticed by the committee most can be remedied only by increased expense. It found spacious library rooms in the newer school buildings, but a shortage of books. This lack, by the way, has already been noted by the board of education, which has promised to buy more books. Play spaces can be made larger only through the purchase of larger sites or the construction of roof playgrounds. Soap and towels for pupils are merely a matter of enlarging the school budget; and it can be enlarged if the city cuts its spending in other directions.

There is good reason why the city should spend more than it does, if that be necessary, to improve its school facilities; there is no reason why the city should pay part of every rider's subway fare. However, children don't vote and subway passengers do.

LANES OF YESTERDAY.

I'd like to travel down the lanes, the lanes of yesterday,
With long, green hedges winding, and crabtrees' fragrant spray.

I'd like a "stake-and-ride" fence with vine-hung sagging rail,
Where tangled grasses and wild flowers conceal a nesting quail;

A meadow-lark's sweet aria, a catbird's variant call,
Blue space and sunny silence, and time to love it all.

I'd want wild roses nodding, each slow, meandering way,
Along the dear forgotten lanes, the lanes of yesterday.

I'd like the old-time carriages with teams of dappled gray,
Of course the towns they'd take us to would seem quite far away,

But oh, the dip of dallying road to rustic bridge and pool
Where padded water lilies lay in shadows long and cool.

Well-kept and white the highways gleam where motors speed today,
But in my heart I love the lanes, the lanes of yesterday.

By the Last Post.

Being secretary to one of those music publishers in the Woods building my days are steeped in music and a queer sort of synthetic romance. A lovely melody is dinned in my ears, day in and day out, until it becomes a nightmare. A beautiful phrase which would be breath taking if it were spoken spontaneously sounds pathetic when one knows how many hours of thought and contemplation it took to write it into a song. One of the bright spots in my life is when Margie of Sunrise Mountain Farm writes you of an evening in the Ozarks. . . . "The fire burns low as the lazy fat moon slowly rises over the mountain. . . . I reach for my husband's hand, and, in the heart of our beloved Ozarks, we sit quietly. . . . knowing the peace that passeth all understanding."

That's real ROMANCE!

Indiana, My Indiana!

Down in Starke county sits little old North Judson on the brow of a hill, population around 1,000; been thataway since the Spanish-American war, when they had a brewery, ten hitchin' posts, and eleven saloons. The hitchin' posts and brewery are gone now. Four railroads squirt through the town, all crossing each other on the same spot—been there for nigh onto fifty years, but no one seems to mind. The suburb on the northeast was yclept Henpeck—yes, you've guessed it, that's why it is so-called; on the southwest was Dinkville—no, I don't know why. Every Sunday during the summer a trainload of Bohemians went out there for a picnic—dollar a round trip, brought their own baskets, beer was free—the picnic grounds were back of the brewery. A tavern stood on the edge of the grounds, the city limits; as you entered the tavern a sign read, "First Chance"; as you departed it said, "Last Chance." In the cool of the evening there was woe pitching. We boys snuck up and watched. O, Mama, who's that at my window? Tra la la.

East of town are the sand hills left by the glacier. Here grew the most luscious wild strawberries and the most competent sandburs. In a valley between the hills runs The Bogus. Once a gang of counterfeiters had a cabin on its banks. We dug up acres hunting money, but no luck. Pottawatome arrow heads and tomahawks were our reward. The Potts camped along there. In the dark of the night we'd swim and imagine the shore rampant with redskins. The screech owls made it purty real sometimes.

We'd sneak home to the old log house and go to bed in the attic, with nothing over us but handwoven shingles, and under us a corn-shuck mattress. At 2 a. m. we were awake; the mice were throwing a party—dancing all over the yellow pine floor; through the open window came the mosquitoes with their fiddles; down in the marsh on the back forty the bullfrogs came up with the cellos, the tubas, and kettles; over in the orchard the crickets and tree frogs swung it. And were those mice in the grove! The old moon looked in and said, "Hyas boys." We felt better with her around. Then we'd throw an old boot at the mice and end the dance. But the orchestra went right on.

Good old North Judson! Good old log house. It's gone now.

BEWARE OF BEZOARS.

MOST objects which are swallowed are able to travel through the alimentary canal. Certain metallic particles, however, may gather within the gastric pouch, and cases have been known in which nails or other items of hardware have been gulped by youngsters or individuals who were mentally ill.

Now and then operation has been necessary to remove from the human stomach a sizable mass, following the habitual eating of persimmons, which contain a peculiar gummy substance. The cementlike material found in this fruit appears to act as a mortar, binding fibers together until the whole is quite too large to pass into the bowel. Such indigestible balls are called bezoars.

There seems to be no way in which these lumps can be dissolved, and the more of the fruit eaten the larger the bulk. Attempts have been made to increase the amount of hydrochloric acid in the stomach in the hope of causing disintegration, and one instance is reported in which this happy result was achieved. The rule, however, that with certain individuals the stomach tends to absorb rather than to eliminate, lend themselves readily to the formation of bezoars has not been controverted. Of course, if there is any obstruction at the stomach outlet, there is far greater likelihood that such accumulations will occur.

The case is cited by J. C. Hancock of a woman 54 years old who visited her physician, complaining of cramplike seizures in the upper abdomen, occasionally attended with vomiting and symptoms of shock. The distressing signs had been present for about a year and at times bright red blood was seen in the stools. The gnawing pain began two hours after meals, finally culminated in a paroxysm of discomfort prostrating in character. In the last episode the patient was so ill that hospital care was required.

Careful examination no masses could be felt in the abdomen, and the family physician's diagnosis—gall bladder disease—adhered to despite negative X-ray findings. Opinions of consultants wavered between some trouble within the bile ducts and a tumor of the stomach wall. Operation was decided upon. Much to the surprise of every one, when the pouch was opened a brownish colored object, nearly the size of the woman's fist and weighing an ounce and one-half, was found. In consistency it resembled sponge rubber; microscopic examination disclosed that it was composed of vegetable fibers.

On questioning, the patient related that she had eaten persimmons intermittently since childhood. Recently she had obtained the Japanese variety, which is supposed to be less likely to form bezoars. They had been a part of her diet almost daily for some weeks preceding her severe illness.

Another middle-aged woman, who for several years had regulated her own diet, choosing largely fruits and vegetables for the menu, was particularly fond of persimmons and had devoured a goodly number over a considerable time. Her very acute digestive trouble was puzzling to a careful X-ray study of the gastrointestinal tract was made. After the barium meal had reached the bowel the outline of two bezoars could be seen, since each retained a coating of the opaque substance. With the history of rather free consumption of the fruit, the diagnosis was established. Prompt recovery followed operation.

The strange part of all this is that, with the widespread use of persimmons, only a relatively small group of people are afflicted. Nevertheless, when there is any digestive spasm of obscure origin, accompanied by violent pain, the condition described should be considered. The suggestion is offered that one who has been taking for the offending edibles that the more it can be mixed with other foods the better. With the cases mentioned it was customary to take a generous quantity on an empty stomach.

RE EXAMINED.

P. O. writes: From time to time both my feet swell so much that they almost resemble clubfeet, although they do not ache—the legs swelling and the feet right. All my eyes often appear puffed up or swollen. Otherwise, I feel all right, but these symptoms worry me.

REPLY.
Edema (accumulation of fluid in the tissues) usually indicates that there is something wrong with the heart or kidneys, or both. You ought to have a careful check-up by a competent physician.

MORE SLEEP FOR CHILD.

Mrs. G. W. writes: What causes a 9 year old boy to keep twitching his arms and legs during sleep? He talks in his sleep every time he is disturbed. The answer is nervous fatigue. The same symptom is observed in those who are older. Try to get the child to sleep soundly. Avoid exciting evenings, provide a light dinner, and increase the hours in bed.

ESTATE ASSETS.
Chicago, July 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—It is necessary for a person to have a will where party owns stock?

2. If said stock is indorsed and signed by a witness, can party who has possession of stock sell it? The stock is issued in my husband's name, but [3] to do away with having a will he has just indorsed it and claims that is all that is necessary.

4. Would the stock have to be changed in my name in case of his death, and could that be done in case he died before it was changed?
1. Depends in part on whether he is satisfied with the distribution embodied in the statute of descent.
2. If you will read the indorsement form you will see that it is worded as a power of attorney. In general, the death of a grantor of such a power revokes the power. We advise against relying on the mere indorsement as a substitute for a will.
3. If what you are interested in is doing away with the necessity of probate proceedings a joint tenancy would be safer. If you wish to ascertain the attitude of the transfer officials of the corporation we suggest that you talk the matter up with them. It seems probable that you would be required to produce a guaranty that the indorser was still living at the time of the transfer.
4. There is no statute requiring it, but presumably you would desire to have the stock in your name.

THAT LOMBARD OUTRAGE.

Chicago, July 28.—I have stood idly by for some months with my blood near the boiling point, but yesterday's outrage in Lombard has it bubbling over.

In the name of God, what kind of a country is this getting to be that can stand by with hands folded while men, whose only sin is that they wish to provide food and clothing for their families, can be persecuted without any question whatever, in a manner not even accorded our worst criminals? Are we a bunch of savages, gloating over a man caught like a rat in a trap, beaten and bludgeoned and left for dead?

I happen to be the wife of one of these men. We have always been happy in that we had a chance to make an honest living. We had no enemies, and while we weren't wealthy in that called money, we had everything in life that we needed. But now we are reduced to have good food; nice clothes are something of the past.

I wish I might sign my name, but in this land of free speech, speech isn't so free any more.

INDIGNANT.

QUICKER JUSTICE IN ENGLAND.

Chicago, July 28.—The recent beating given a Lombard man by a gang of hoodlums reminds me of an incident in England seven years ago. An American ship had just arrived in a seaport city of England. Two members of the crew, an engineer and a radio operator, drew a sum of money against their pay and were going ashore to spend it. In the vicinity of the dockyard they were set upon by a gang of hoodlums, robbed, and beaten.

Within twelve hours the police caught two of the criminals, recovered part of the money, got confessions from the two and the names of their accomplices. The court held the trial, a guilty verdict was rendered, and they were sentenced to several years' imprisonment at hard labor with several lashings across the back.

And that's not all—the terms of the two who were found guilty did not begin until the last man of the gang was apprehended by the police.

Is it any wonder that there is respect for the law, the "bobbies," and English courts? INTERESTED BYSTANDER.

THAT FOOLISH WORD "FOO."

Chicago, July 28.—Will some one tell me, or does any one know, the origin of the word "foo"? I cannot imagine an uglier or more foolish word. One cannot help wondering when one hears the word, the "bobbies," and English courts?

CONSTANT READER.

REPORTS SAY "SOON."

Chicago, July 28.—I took the police examination over a year ago. We have had rumors of its posting for several months. Won't you try and find out just what the right date will be, so several thousand young men will know where they stand? It is the anxiety that is so killing. We all know there are several hundred vacancies, but for an unknown reason it is held up. W. F. H.

TIPS TO RELIEF SEEKERS.

Chicago, July 27.—How to get on relief or a WPA job:
Be prepared to meet a female graduate from Chicago university.

Be as ignorant as possible and talk poor English; have a large family, no income whatever, no insurance, no money, and live in the cheapest hole possible.

If you are a native American be sure and change your name, because most of these case workers forget they are in America.

Borrow enough of your neighbor's kids to have a large family. A man and wife stand no chance because one or the other should be able to get a job.

Be prepared for a turnaround. A social worker must make a report each day as follows: Interviews, 12; placements, 2; no relief needed, 10. This is a good day's work.

If you can find some one who is acquainted with a social worker they will slip you through. A letter from your alderman or some one who can vouch for you does not mean a thing.

I have made four attempts to get on WPA and not relief, but my wife, who has had a small job which hardly keeps up our table, must quit her job first, then I must ask for relief and maybe in five or six weeks I might get something.

IN DEFENSE OF GOV. KRASCHKE.

Iowa City, Ia., July 28.—I am not surprised at your editorial on Gov. Kraschke, but in his defense I wish to say that the writer of the editorial showed a lack of knowledge of the facts, a narrow concept of human rights and liberties as they should exist in America, and an extremely loose use of the words "lawless," "dictator," and "citizens."

The facts are that the sheriff and the unprofessional judge asked for the troops to come to Newton, and the governor has decided to keep the plant closed until it is opened by arbitration. The decision of this board was fair, but rejected by the Maytag company. Basically the board's decision was in favor of the company.

I would suggest that the wage earner and the common man be included in the concept of human rights. All of the citizens of Iowa are not stockholders in the Maytag company. I hope this editorial on Gov. Kraschke will be seen in its true light and will be a vote getter for him.

RUFFIANS IN THE PARK.

Chicago, July 26.—Please ask the Chicago park board to do something for citizens who seek rest, quiet, or relaxation in Lincoln park, especially on Sundays. Last Sunday an elderly man was about to sit on a bench when two black haired ruffians demanded the bench. The man protested and was pushed to the ground. He got up and his quiet attempt at reasoning was rewarded with another knockdown, and the thugs carried the bench away. Did they really need it? Well, not right away, because they immediately engaged in baseball practice, much to the discomfort of all in the immediate vicinity.

This kind of thing can be stopped. Designate special areas for exercise which requires physical exertion, yelling, and profanity. Have a permanent uniformed patrol to see that rules of the park, at least, if not those of good conduct and decency, are enforced.

DRIVERS' UNION FIGHTS CUT PRICE FOR STORE MILK

Blames Practice for Loss of 2,500 Jobs.

The Milk Wagon Drivers' union is seeking a uniform price for milk whether bought in stores or delivered to the home, it was learned yesterday, on the ground that the present differential is throwing drivers out of jobs. Home delivered milk costs 12 cents a quart, 2 cents more than the retail store price.

The milk drivers contend that unemployment is caused because the 2 cent difference tends to send more customers to the stores, thereby reducing the buying on delivery routes. A committee has been appointed to negotiate with the large dairies.

2,500 Drivers Lose Jobs.

Steve Sumner, head of the union, said that 2,500 drivers have been forced out of jobs in the last few years. The differential was put into effect a few years ago to meet competition of cut rate dairies.

Paul Potter, executive secretary of the Associated Milk Dealers, said there was little chance that the large dairies would agree to the proposal. The large dealers cannot cut the home delivery price without taking a loss and cannot raise the store price without losing business to the cut rate milk companies, he said.

The union has been picketing retail stores where cut rate milk is sold.

Wants Jobless Off Relief.

"We are not concerned about the price charged for milk in these stores," Sumner said. "What we object to is the employment of non-union and cheap labor in handling the product."

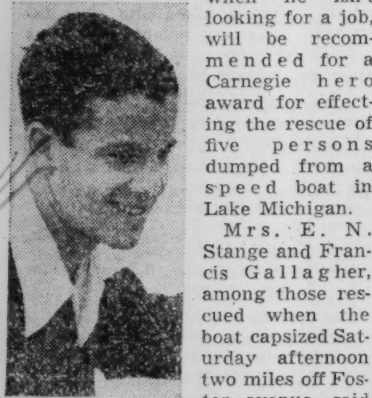

"We are hopeful that a solution can be found which will increase employment and take many of our unemployed members off the relief rolls."

Federal officials investigating an alleged milk monopoly in the Chicago area have moved their offices from the federal building to larger quarters in the City National Bank building, 208 South La Salle street.

Leo F. Tierney, special assistant attorney general sent here from Washington, is in charge of the investigation. The grand jury is expected to resume hearing witnesses tomorrow. Officials and representatives of several large dairies will be heard, it was said.

CARNEGIE MEDAL IS SOUGHT FOR A JOBLESS HERO

An unemployed young man who spends his spare time swimming when he isn't looking for a job, will be recommended for a Carnegie hero award for effecting the rescue of five persons dumped from a speed boat in Lake Michigan.

Mrs. E. N. Stange and Francis Gallagher, among those rescued when the boat capsized Saturday afternoon two miles off Foster avenue, said yesterday they would write to the Carnegie Foundation and tell of the heroism of the rescuer. He is Philip Richmond, 20 years old, of 3615 Lawrence avenue.

While diving off rocks along the shore, about a quarter of a mile south of Foster avenue beach, Richmond saw the boat overturn.

Richmond struck out with a fast crawl stroke for the Foster avenue beach, and from there to the Edgewater Beach pier to get aid.

The others in the rescued party are Mrs. Kathryn E. Robinson, 62 years old, mother of Mrs. Stange; Mrs. A. F. Boone, and her son, David. They all live at the Sherburne Beach apartments, 6259 Sheridan road.

Betty Deacon to Be Bride of Donald Bennett

BY JUDITH CASS.
MR. AND MRS. EDWARD FRANCIS DEACON entertained from 5 until 7 o'clock yesterday at their Winnetka home to announce the engagement of their daughter Betty to Donald Vivian Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Bennett of Fort Clinton, O.

The announcement will rob the debutante list of one of its members for the coming season, for Miss Deacon was to have been presented this year. Instead, she will return to Briarcliffe for her last year of schooling.

Young Mr. Bennett is a second classman at the United States Military academy at West Point, so no plans have been made for the wedding just yet. Miss Deacon possibly might be among West Point's June brides when her fiancé is graduated.

Mr. Bennett is spending ten days with his fiancée and her family. Miss Deacon is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Arnold Layman of St. Louis, Mo., where the Deacons formerly lived.

At a tea at home in Glencoe yesterday Mr. and Mrs. George D. Purdon announced the engagement of their daughter, Ellenor Marie, to Leo Paul Corcoran, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John J. Corcoran of Chicago.

Miss Purdon is a graduate of St. Mary-of-the-Woods college. The wedding will take place in October.

Luncheon Tomorrow for the MacMillans.

The English-Speaking union is giving a luncheon at the Palmer house at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow for Lord and Lady MacMillan. Lord MacMillan is lord of appeal in ordinary and a famed British judge. He will speak at the luncheon.

Among those who will hear the jurist are Samuel M. Rinkner, who is leaving with Mrs. Rinkner on Aug. 15 for a visit on Cape Cod; the Henry P. Chandlers, James F. Oates, James B. Forgan, the John J. McDonoughs, and George Packard.

Mr. and Mrs. Oates are taking their grandchildren, children of Mr. and Mrs. Oates Jr., to Wausaukee for a month, leaving this week. They have leased the Teller MacArthur's cottage at the Wausaukee club.

Open Harbor Point Home for Shut-Ins Sale.

One of the old Harbor Point, Mich., homes which recently has changed hands and been completely done over will be opened tomorrow for a sale of goods from the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins' shop. It is the former James B. Forgan home, now owned by Mr. and Mrs. William W. Renshaw, who have been occupying it for only a month. The house is adjacent to the Harbor Point club.

Mrs. Frank M. Gordon and Mrs. L. Edward Hart are co-chairmen of the sale. Acting as salesgirls will be some of the young women summing up at the Point.

Harbor Point was gay over the week-end with Chicago visitors. The John R. Hurleys were guests of the Henry L. McIntyres at the home of her mother, Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler. Edmund M. Sullivan joined his wife at the cottage of her parents, the Gordons, where Paul Oliver also was a guest. Watson Newhall and Richard K. Juergens were guests of Miss Elisabeth and Miss Dorothy Dewes.

Mrs. Lehmann Hostess to Camp Directors.

A meeting of the board of directors and associate members of the Emilie Lehmann Peacock camp will be held at 3 o'clock Wednesday at the Lake Villa home of Mrs. Otto Lehmann. From Mrs. Lehmann's the directors will go to the camp nearby to see a play given by the children. Mrs. Lehmann will serve tea at her home following the play.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ryerson Jr. have decided against giving a birthday party to celebrate their second wedding anniversary today. Instead they will dine out quietly.

Francis S. North Jr. has gone to Lake Louise in Canada on a mountain climbing expedition. His brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William North, have taken a house in Lake Forest and will come from Philadelphia, where they have been for the last year, on Oct. 1. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Haskins of England, Mr. North's brother-in-law and sister, have been spending some time on their farm in Deerfield and visiting with Mrs. Haskins' mother, the senior Mrs. North. They will return to their home in Essex, England, this week.

Mozart Gets His Just Due from Heifetz

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Any one who is waiting around to hear better violin playing than Jascha Heifetz achieved at Ravinia park yesterday afternoon in the middle movement of the fourth Mozart concerto may just as well go on about his business. The chance of some fiddler of the future projecting in a more eloquent manner the feeling which informs the work is extremely slight. And as to the technical means by which the projection was effected—command of tone and color, cleanliness of delivery, etc.—a man who can better Mr. Heifetz's record on these points is unlikely to appear hereabouts for the rest of this season, at least.

Here was a classical serenity which never even threatened to degenerate into coldness. Each phrase boasted so intense an interest of its own, yet fell magnificently into the spaciously conceived plan of the entire movement. The delivery of the second theme, especially, quite turned the audience upside down emotionally by the confident power of its gradually accumulating periods. This was an authentic example of classical music-making, in which the part was comprehensible only in the view of the whole.

Eugene Ormandy collaborated handsomely on the conductor's stand. A phrase surrendered by the violin to the orchestra rose from the massed instruments nobly intensified, but never altered in movement or spirit. In other words, the impression that a competition of some sort was going on never threatened to spoil the air of unanimity which the performance as a whole displayed.

A huge audience received so cordially the efforts of soloist and orchestra that an extra number—the Bach air for G string—had to be added. This appearance concluded Mr. Heifetz's two performance engagement with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. It concluded, also,

Weber, W-G-N Orchestra Win Park Acclaim

BY CECIL SMITH.

It was W-G-N night in Grant park last night. From the radio station Henry Weber, W-G-N's musical director, brought his orchestra (augmented by a number of players from outside) and his staff, soprano, Kathryn Witwer, to present a concert of distinctive merit before a typically large Sunday evening audience.

Mr. Weber has planned his Grant park programs well this summer, and last night's was no exception. For those who prefer familiar favorites there were the two preludes from Wagner's "Lohengrin" and Rimsky-Korsakoff's bubbling "Spanish Caprice." Mendelssohn's "Italian" symphony satisfied those who like their music to depart from the patch most frequently trod by conductors, without forcing problematical issues of modernism upon them.

The introduction and march from Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Le Coq d'Or," the rumba from Earl McDonald's Second symphony, and Gustav Holst's "Japanese Suite" added a few dashes of the exotic to the evening's pleasures.

The Mendelssohn symphony, the most difficult item on the program because of the extreme clarity and finesse with which it must be handled, received an effervescent performance. In the plaintive slow movement Mr. Weber evoked from his orchestra a choice tonal delicacy and an admirable tonal balance.

Miss Witwer was heard to best advantage in Tchaikovsky's "None But the Lonely Heart," which she sang as a final encore. Her sustained legato and warmth of feeling removed the thrice familiar song far from the old chestnut classification into which it can easily fall.

For more displayful pieces Miss Witwer chose the waltz song from Gounod's "Roméo and Juliet" and the Johann Strauss waltz, "Tales from the Vienna Woods." These she negotiated with creditable agility and pure tone, without quite adding any significant personal touch.

It was announced last night that the scheduled half hour of popular music from 7:30 to 8 on Wednesday, and not Abe Lyman's orchestra, previously announced.

Linen Exposition Offers Displays from Many Lands

More than fifty displays of linens, lace and embroideries are being shown at the Palmer house this week in the Chicago linen exposition. Lace tablecloths from Scotland, Madeira from the Canary Islands, damask from Ireland, Alençon lace from France, and embroideries from Porto Rico are included in the showing.

Children's Outing.
 The thirty-fourth annual outing of Chicago's orphans and crippled children will be held on Aug. 12 in Lincoln park.

Good Morning!
 This is, really, just another "Dead End" and "Crime School," so far as story motif and players are concerned. For "Little Tough Guy" features the juvenile players who did such telling work in the aforementioned films, and events depict the results of unfortunate environment and evil influences of the youth of a nation.

His father, "Jim Boylan," executed—unjustly as he believes—Johnny Boylan becomes an enemy of society and ringleader of a gang of hoodlums who specialize in petty thievery.

Into their lives, unexpectedly, comes a rich boy whose warped nature craves thrills. His money, and his determination to be head criminal of some sort or other soon establish him as the "Master Mind" of the gang. ... When police finally catch up with the young renegades and "things grow hot, the wretch turns squaler."

The boys are cornered and "Pig" is killed. ... Johnny's sister finally persuades him to surrender and, though the gang has justice meted out, the tale's finale is a sunnily optimistic one.

Billy Halop as Johnny gives a beautiful performance. He keeps you pulling for him. Hunts Hall as "Pig" is splendid and so are all of the other "Dead End"ers. Helen Parrish as Johnny's worried sister, Peggy Stewart as the nice little girl who loves and believes in him, and Marjorie Main as his lackluster mother are excellent. Other players please.

The film was directed with sympathy and understanding and has several extremely dramatic and moving sequences.

And now I think somebody'd better get together a new sort of scenario for the "Dead End" kids.

See you tomorrow.

SYNOPSIS

On board the S. S. Panama Queen, sailing from Los Angeles to New York, via Panama, are Anne Sydney, who has a part in a Broadway play, and her crippled and embittered husband, Alex. Anne is a beautiful blonde, who has a stateroom next to the Vernon suite, and hopes to get in pictures through him; and Alex, a young man returning to work after two years' illness. Isobel meets and saves Vernon's interest. Anne and Alex are mutually attracted. Alex tells Anne that he is a heartless fiend. Pride causes Anne to hold herself aloof from him. Dr. Neil Andrews, a friend of Alex's, joins the ship to make a new will disinheriting him. The ship falls through a terrific hurricane. Isobel finds Vernon in her cabin, unconscious, hit by a storm tossed trunk. She sends Claire to the purser's suite and shoots her husband, leaving the weapon in Isobel's wardrobe. She then tells Alex she found her husband wounded in Isobel's cabin. Alex operates on Vernon. The captain starts an inquiry. The stewardess reports that she found the body of the purser's in Claire's room and that Claire had given her an emerald ring to keep silent. Claire charges the stewardess with the ring. Anne agrees to give Neil an answer to his proposal in a month. Neil is jealous of Alex.

INSTALLMENT XXXVII.
PHOTOGRAPHIC EVIDENCE.

Neil knew what he was about to do was unworthy of his friendship which had existed for so long between himself and Alex, but Anne's yen for Alex led nowhere and to make way for it would do nobody any good. The sooner things straightened out between them all the better.

He led the way to his own suite and out on to his private veranda. They could sit and watch the splendid white ocean front of Havana slide away from them as the ship steamed out to sea.

The steward brought cocktails and left them. "Too bad you couldn't go ashore," said Neil. "Any further developments?"

"No. What could there be? No one's going to confess, and the captain would recognize the truth if he saw the crime committed." Alex added hastily—"I don't mean anything detrimental to the old boy. He's a splendid fellow and a fine seaman. Murder just isn't in his line."

Nor in yours, thought Neil, a shade guiltily. However he had to get this one girl he'd set his heart upon. He had projected himself into the future so thoroughly—a future built around his marriage to her—that he could not endure the prospect of defeat. He lifted his glass.

"Well Alex—congratulate me!"

Alex lifted his without any show of emotion. He had in fact been steeling himself to this.

"If it's a fair accomplishment I certainly do. Here's to you."

"You show very little enthusiasm, I must say."

"If Anne has parted with her ambitions—her ideals—so easily, I can't help feeling disappointed in her."

Neil scented danger. He said, "Actually that question has not arisen yet."

"O. I see." Alex was almost unkindly.

"Sure you're not making a great fuss over nothing?"

"No. But Phyllis Leslie tried suicide because she said yes before she knew what her intentions were."

"But I'm going to marry this one."

"Kind of you, Neil. But Anne's a different girl with a different problem, which you're handling in exactly the same way."

"Not at all. I'm not in the spot yet. She won't announce our engagement for a month. Then is the time to tell her."

"Rather an odd arrangement, isn't it?"

"Not at all. She wants to make her final decision in her new surroundings rather than in the hectic atmosphere of the trip."

"Then congratulations are in order," said Alex, "you're going to get a sensible wife."

Then, with a casual air, Neil said, "And by the way it's a secret, so don't congratulate her. Come on—I'm hungry. Let's go down and eat."

Anne was not at the dining table. She was not in the mood to talk or be talked to. The bright silver-plated tray on her dressing table was evidence of one man's love, but for the moment that love had lost its power to comfort her.

THE THIRTEENTH DAY.

Anne was relieved that Neil was busy in the morning while Alex slept. She wanted to be alone to think things out for herself, away from his magnetic personality and persuasive eloquence.

Walking around the deck she saw a group of passengers standing around a new collection of photographs just pinned up on the photographer's board. That reminded her that he would have her color pictures of Colon and Cristobal ready. She went up to his dark room on the upper deck.

"Splendid work, Miss Sydney," he said, giving her the little package. They were beautiful, clear and brilliant—much better than the last ones.

They were, for instance, of Mrs. Vernon, with her pale hair and her filmy gray dress lit by the green jewel at her neck and the vivid emerald on her finger.

A shock ran through Anne leaving her nerves tingling and a shudder in her throat. That was the ring Claire said the stewardess had stolen from her during the passage through the canal, before they had landed at Colon. And there she was wearing it ashore, so the story the stewardess had told was true. And that meant she was the one—the inhuman incredible monster who could pick up a gun and kill.

Anne rushed headlong to the purser's office.

She thrust the two pictures of Mrs. Vernon into his hands. "Look!" she exclaimed. "Can't you see something?"

He looked at them obediently. "Very pretty, Miss Sydney, but nothing to get so violently excited about."

"You think not?" She put her finger on the print he had uppermost.

"What about the ring she said she lost before we docked at Colon? There she has it on her hand."

"Why so she has! He was infected now with her excitement. This at last was something definite to go upon. He turned to Anne with sudden disappointment. "But the woman has so much jewelry. Suppose she has two or three of these massive emeralds."

"They wouldn't be the same size and shape."

"You're right. They will leave these with me, Miss Sydney?"

"Certainly. That's why I brought them to you."

Flagg looked at his watch. "Mr. Ansley will be on the bridge. I'll go right now and show them to the captain. You'll hear the news later."

When confronted with the evidence of the photographs no sign of guilt was visible save a slightly heightened color which might have been due to the indignation Claire Vernon simulated at the very idea that her story about the ring should even now be doubted.

Capt. MacKenzie, more harassed than gratified by the new evidence, gave her every opportunity to clear herself if possible. Claire did not even try.

My patience is at an end," she said loftily, "with this amateur work of law. Any further questions you have to ask must now wait till I have consulted a lawyer."

The captain put his broad finger tip on the green spot on the photograph, "but you'll have to admit Mrs. Vernon, that here's the ring you lost before landing in Colon as plain as the nose on my face."

"There's a ring," she qualified. "And how are you to know how many emeralds rings I have?"

"Well, if you'd just bring the ring that was on your hand in the photograph and show it to us, Mrs. Vernon, I could drop this cross-examination which so much annoys you."

"Mine's a little worse, I think," she said, with a faint mocking smile. "And now, if you're finished with me, I'd like to go—"

GASOLINE ALLEY—HAPLESS HAP

Too Perfect
House Hard on The Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

(Copyright, 1938: By the Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate.)

"What a miserable week-end we've had," moaned a friend of mine. "Bill and Madge may love their nephew, but they simply adore their furniture. You know at Son's age what happens to their arms and legs in the course of a couple of days indoors."

"Well, all I did was to try to keep Son from marring the painful perfection of their house. They didn't say anything, but they stopped in the middle of sentences when Sonny's feet wiggled on the rungs of the chairs or were drawn coily up under him on the sofa—and looked. So, about all I said to the poor boy all the weekend was, 'Put your feet down, Jim.'"

"Br-r-r—I don't know what's going to happen to Madge when her baby gets out of his bassinet. Why, their house doesn't look lived in!"

I know the kind of house that is. It looks like the exhibition room of an interior decorator, or a furniture store window. And it is the most important thing in the life of the woman who keeps it immaculate and orderly. No signs of good lusty living are in it. Her husband undoubtedly suffers from her mania (I've seen it become almost a mania), and if she has children she almost surely refers to "my furniture—my piano—my upholstery—my house." How can any child live warmly and richly and fully in such a place?

But there is another sort of house in which children can live as they should, a house in which they can love and quarrel and play and work, in which they can wrestle and tussle the stretch and dream and read in peace, with legs slung comfortably over the arms of an easy chair—a house in which they can have pets and "make a mess" with carpentry, blocks, painting or sewing. In this house a child is not nagged or scolded for the logical confusion or disorder that accompanies interested occupations, nor for the wear and tear that follows good lusty living.

Your home is your child's home. It is the only home he has, really—isn't it? Don't make him feel like an intruder.

You can furnish your home charmingly and still furnish and decorate it with the needs of your children in mind. And if some of the shabby and disorder bothers you, remember that the time will come, alas! when you can have it as neat, as correct, as orderly as you please! Now's the time for you all to enjoy it together.

"In-betweeners" are hard on a house. "Living with Our In-Betweeners—The Children from Six to Twelve" is a booklet of interest to parents. It will be sent on receipt of a large stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

There's still a month of summer ahead. If your bath towel supply is getting low, why not indulge in some reasonably priced and smartly styled new ones? Scarlet fish designs make a jolly border for big, white, woolly towels. Beige towels have a good looking brown and white end border, and another style shows brown and white stripes, or beige with green.

Some of the cleverest of all are the white bath towels having a border pattern of red and blue ship's anchors and ship's wheels. They'd certainly be ideal for a summer cottage near the lake or the sea.

The August Sale of Rich and Luxurious Fur-Trimmed Coats

$58 to $139

Not in many years, a long record of important and impressive sales notwithstanding, have we found the market conditions that enabled us to bring you rich woolsens and furs at prices as low as you will find them in this sale. Emphasizing this is the fact that included in the sale are coats generously trimmed with precious mink and silver fox at prices you once paid for ordinary furs. It's not price alone and the lavish use of fine furs, but the authentic fashion story in every coat in the collection that makes this sale of unique importance. Sketched are seven styles that represent the most important and notable coat fashions of the coming season. Don't fail to take advantage of these August sale prices. They represent a genuine saving to you of 15% to 20% under the coming September coat prices.

HALAS CHOOSES REDSKINS IN ALL-STAR GAME

Bear Coach Praises Passing Skill.

BY GEORGE HALAS.
(Head Coach, Chicago Bears.)

Don't lift an eyebrow if the encounter between the Washington Redskins and the College All-Stars in Soldier's field on the night of Aug. 31, develops into the heaviest scoring affair in the history of this annual gridiron classic. Scoring will not be limited to one team, in my judgment. The policy of the Redskins, to a degree, is "millions for offense, not one cent for defense." Why shouldn't they feel that way? In a pinch Sammy Baugh whips a pass to Wayne Miller, Charley Malone or some other young brave in the tribe and boom, there's a touchdown, just like that. The opposing team may wear itself down to a shadow, doggedly punching away until it reaches pay dirt, only to have the touchdown wiped out a few moments later by one of Sammy's throws.

George Is Sobbing Yet.

After the All-Star game is over, I suspect that the athletic director at large of collegiate football, Arch Ward, will join me at the walling wall. I have been howling there since our own bout with the Redskins for the championship of the National Football league.

The football world knows that we lost, 28 to 21, that Baugh threw three touchdowns against us and set the stage for another, but certain details of that game may have been forgotten. As a warning to the All-Star coaching staff, their athletic director and the players themselves, some of those details may lead to repeating.

We led Washington, 14 to 7, at the half. To get those 14 points we smashed and drove, fought for the inches, and played all the football we knew. And what happened? Within two minutes after the second half started the Redskins had tied the score on a pass by Baugh. So we went back to work. We marched seventy-two yards, via the ground route, to Washington's 3 yard line. With the Redskins in a massive goal line formation, Bernie Masterson pitched a forward pass to Eggs Manske and we again went into the lead.

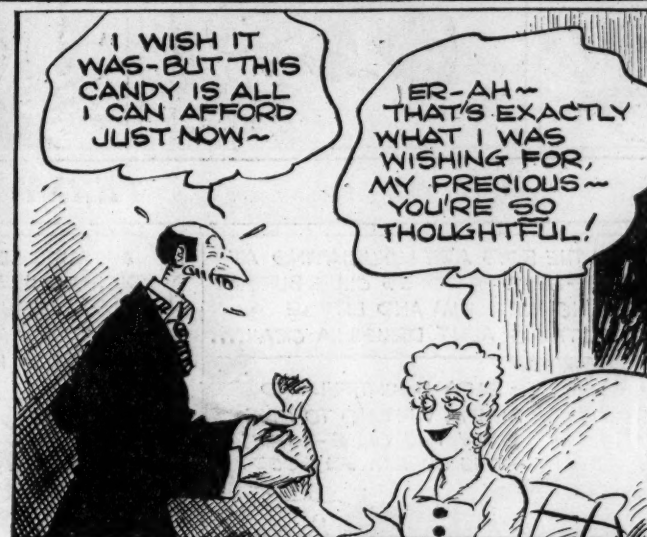

It Didn't Last Long.

Our lead endured for exactly one minute, until Baugh tied the score on a forward pass to Miller. A short time later he threw another touchdown pass, giving Washington its winning margin.

The point is clear, I believe. The Bears gained 335 yards, scored three touchdowns against Washington, and lost. I don't believe the All-Stars are capable of gaining any comparable yardage against the Redskins, although Washington is not as strong, defensively, as the Green Bay Packers, the Detroit Lions, the Chicago Cardinals, or pardon me, the Chicago Bears.

The All-Stars may score one touchdown, perhaps two. Ordinarily that would be enough to win. They will be wise to remember, however, that the Redskins rang up 49 points against the New York Giants, a big, seasoned team with plenty of stars, and 28 points against the Bears. There will be more action crammed into the game Aug. 31 than in two or three ordinary games.

WHIZZER WHITE JOINS PIRATES; SALARY $15,000

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 1 (Monday).—(AP)—Coach Johnny Blood of the Pittsburgh pro football Pirates said early today Byron (Whizzer) White, Colorado's All-American quarterback back, had accepted an offer of $15,000 to play the 1938 season with the Pirates. Blood said White told him in a telephone conversation he had arranged to delay until January his entrance at Oxford university, England, where he was awarded a Rhodes scholarship. White agreed, the Pirate mentor said, to report at Loretto, Pa., the Pirates' training camp, on Aug. 10. A few weeks ago White said he had definitely abandoned any idea of playing. This week-end he telegraphed he was ready to reconsider. White asked permission to play with the College All-Stars at Chicago next month, but Blood said it was not granted.

TEN CHICAGOLAND BOYS AND GIRLS SWIM TO TITLES

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Hail to the swimming champions of Chicagoland! In a series of brilliant races yesterday afternoon in the Diversey beach lagoon five boys and five girls won gold medal awards for supremacy in swimming 100 yards. These ten championship events, preceded by twenty semi-final eliminations, climaxed the two hours of competition which concluded the ninth annual meet sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Fifteen thousand circled the lagoon to watch the Chicagoland races and the events of the water carnival arranged by the Chicago park district. Medinah, Lake Shore Win. One hundred and eighty-three were eligible for yesterday's semi-finals. They were the survivors in a field of 1,500 who had registered for the four sectional qualifying meets the previous week. All had received gold qualifying medals. Yesterday's winners were awarded the gold championship medals. Second and third place finishers in each championship race received silver and bronze medals, respectively.

Although the Medinah club's girls team easily won the team trophy with 19 points, taking three of the five championships, the fight for the boys' team trophy, which was won by the Lake Shore A. C., was reminiscent of the contest in 1936 when the swimmers from Jackson natatorium finally emerged from a three cornered team battle with the silver cup. NEW BROOM CUBS BEAT PHILS, 4-3, AFTER 6 TO 5 LOSS

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Philadelphia, Pa., July 31. — The Cubs, with Charley Root and Gabby Hartnett, the majors' oldest battery, playing hero roles, ended a span of misery today when they finally handed a licking to the pitiable tail end Phillies, 4 to 3, in a seven inning game. Pennsylvania's 6 o'clock Sunday closing law ended the battle. The Phillies had won the first game, 6 to 5, on a twelfth inning homer by Substitute Bill Atwood, off Bill Lee. This tragedy, combined with two earlier losses here and a soaking in the midnight final in Brooklyn, had run the new broom record to four straight losses.

All Was Indigo.

Things were at a new pair of umpire's pants in the Cub camp, of course, and got bluer when the Phils teed off for three runs in the first inning of the second game. But old Mr. Root was good from then on. His mates tied the score with two runs in the second and one in the fourth, Manager Hartnett contributing singles to both enterprises. The winning run was rung up in the sixth solely on the efforts of the aged battery. Hartnett led off with his third hit, stole second while Collins fanned (imagine that), and scored the winning run on Root's single to right. Though he worked under sweltering temperatures Gabby was the catcher in both games. He made a double and a single and drew a pass in the first game and hit three singles in the second.

FIRST GAME

The fact that the Cubs made two doubles, five singles and drew two passes in the first five innings, from which they derived a grand total of one run, gives some idea of how deaf they were to opportunity's knocks in the first part of the first game. The most spectacular of the several fold-ups came in the second inning. Reynolds walked and stopped at second on Marty's single to center. Hartnett doubled to left, a shot which should have scored both Reynolds and Marty. Reynolds did get home but Marty stopped at third. Collins lifted a short fly to Klein. Then Marty was thrown out at the plate on Carleton's sharp grounder to Weintraub. Jurgens fled to Klein.

Phillies Take the Lead.

The Phillies grabbed the lead in the fourth. Weintraub walked and went to third on Klein's single to right. Brack forced Klein, Weintraub scoring the tying run. Davis singled to center. Brack taking third, whence he scored on Mueller's fly to Marty. In the sixth the Phillies scored two more and the Cubs seemed stunned. Klein walked and moved up on Brack's sacrifice. Davis was given an intentional pass. Herman ran Marty and Demaree away from Mueller's fly well out in right center, then dropped the ball for a single, loading the bases. After dropping the ball Herman fell.

DEFEAT LYONS, 5 TO 1, TAKE 2D, 7 TO 3, IN 15TH

Errors Cost Chicago Both Games.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox still are embedded in a losing streak, which is leading them away instead of toward their first division goal. The streak was stretched to five games when James Dylis, warriors crumpled before the New York Yankees and 26,000 spectators yesterday, 5 to 1, took the first half of a double-header. It continued in the second game when the world champions triumphed, 7 to 3, but in this engagement the Sox didn't surrender without an argument. They carried on for fifteen innings, the finish coming on a combination of errors and Yankee hits.

The second game began as a personal affair between Jack Knott and Spud Chandler, the latter being the man who on his last visit here hit a home run to win his own game, 1 to 0. Knott retired after a two run fifth inning which boosted the Yankees into a tie. Chandler was still around when the last out was recorded. After the fourth, when he was touched for four hits and three runs, he went through eleven scoreless innings in which he yielded only three hits. He was assisted, of course, by brilliant fielding.

Tough Luck, Lefty.

After Knott had withdrawn John Rigney acted ably until a trying situation arose in the ninth. Then Thornton Lee, the lefty who can't seem to get going, was summoned. Lee was a wonder man until Red Rolfe singled in the fifteenth with one out. Tom Henrich also singled, but Gerry (Ping Pong) Walker messed up the fielding effort, so Henrich scored and Henrich went to third. Joe Di Maggio was purposely passed and on Lou Gehrig's single, right, Henrich scored. Appling fumbled the throw in, Gehrig going to second and Di Maggio to third. The latter scored on Arndt Jorgens' fly and Gehrig skipped home with the last run when Marv Owen lost Myril Hoag's bounder.

The Sox fielding also was faulty in Washington Park Offers Handicapping Prizes.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There was a new note of exhilaration among Chicago racers last night as they awaited the opening of the Washington Park Jockey club's midsummer racing season this afternoon.

It has all been brought about by the $30,000 amateur handicapping contest to be introduced there today for the first time on any race course.

Folks who believe they can pick the winner, whether by handicap figures or by some abracadabra method, have come from near and far to take a flyer at the rich prize.

$1,000 for Seven Winners.

They get $1,000 if they can pick the first seven winners on any race.

Their various systems fail to produce that many winners in a single day of racing; they have still a chance on Saturday—provided there has been no other perfect guesser in the crowd—of winning the cumulative prize for having the greatest number of winners on that Saturday afternoon.

The Saturday prize easily can total $5,000.

This scheme of speculation has changed woe-borne countenances into little sunbeams of hope.

Joe Allen, the Cincinnati plunger, walked buoyantly down Michigan boulevard early yesterday afternoon waving a neat handful of papers in his hand. "I have it," was the only information he was giving out.

Arthur (The Singing Kid) Loftus hummed "Pennies from Heaven" as he went about his handicapping yesterday. Tony Barrett of the Board of Trade last night exhibited a set of handicap figures on today's races that appeared infallible.

Senator Hartford, and Swift Morgan, the necktie importer, combined their talents. They magnanimously agreed to pick all eight winners instead of the mere seven straight required.

They'll Be There Early.

There promises to be a rush for the track on the early Illinois Central race trains today, since to become eligible for the contest the visitor at the track must possess a program on which to mark his selection.

Then these selections must be dropped into a red contest box which somewhat resembles a ballot box. All this must be done before 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The winner, if there is a winner, will be announced shortly after the running of the seventh race.

Racing Secretary Charley McLenahan showed no mercy for this opening day army of handicappers when he arranged the program. There are 105 overnight entries for today's races.

Steger Handicap Heads Card.

The topline of the opening card is the Steger handicap, which attracted an even dozen of the best sprinters in the Chicago racing circuit.

On the program Silverette will be the favorite. Twice at Arlington Park she trimmed Warren Wright's fleet sprinter, Talked About. That send her into today's race with a record which shades those of her rivals.

However, like many other horses, Silverette often sandwiches a bad race or two in between her brilliant performances.

Chief contention today is expected to come from the Lemar Stock farm entry of Mad Money and Mar Lee, the speedy Transmutable, John March's Kings Eye, the Canadian colt, Fairfax, and Bennett Creech's speedster, Grey Streak.

FURR IMPERILS HIS RANKING IN 10 ROUND BOUT

Phil Furr, native of Alexandria, Va., who is fighting out of Washington, D. C., will risk his standing as No. 3 welterweight contender in a ten round bout with Tony Petros of Muskegon, Mich., in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

In the secondary event of five rounds, Lou Laurie, promising Cleveland featherweight, faces Eddie Lander. In a previous meeting Laurie scored a disputed decision.

King Kong opposes Fred Grubmiller in the main match on the wrestling card in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening.

George Mansor meets Fritz Von Schacht, Jimmy Heffner tackles Otto Schnabel, and Phil Malloy meets Johnny Gudiski. Kid Chapman and Pete Bartu open the show.

Pros, Seniors Hold Annual Tourney Today

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The 1938 pro seniors' tournament for members of the Illinois Seniors' Golf Association and the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association will be held this afternoon at the Skokie Country Club. Play will be in two ball foursomes, on a selective drive basis. The senior members will play at one-half their club handicaps. There will be one low gross prize and a number of low net awards. Frederick W. Hill of the home club is secretary of the seniors' association, and Jack Anderson of St. Techy fields, chairman of the P. G. A. tournament committee.

The remainder of the week provides local golfers with another busy program. Tomorrow Edgewater starts its annual invitational tournament, the Hi-Jinx, which will be concluded on Wednesday. Calumet's Plaza Dae will be held Wednesday with a field expected to reach 300, one of the largest of the year. The 32d annual Kitties day at Skokie Thursday will give Chicago swimmers one of their last opportunities to test the old course before changes now in progress for next year are completed. Medinah women members will hold their annual White Fox day on Thursday. Male members of the big west side course will gather for the Camel Trail, largest invitational of the year, on Aug. 17.

The Chicago Women's District Golf association will play the deciding series of its invitational team matches at Ridgemoor on Wednesday. Going into the matches, the Northwest team holds the lead with a total of 62½ points, followed by South, 61; Northeast, 51½; and West, 41.

Early entries for the 25th annual amateur championship tournament of the Chicago District Golf association, to be decided the next two weekends at Medinah, indicate that a record field will take advantage of the new system of play. The tournament, conducted in the past as a regular through-the-week event, will now be run on the California system of consecutive weekends, allowing a number of good amateurs who otherwise would not be able to compete to enter.

The system was devised by the Northern California association, and was recommended to the C. D. G. A. by Jack Hoerner, former Stanford star who now registers from North Shore. Next Saturday the field will play thirty holes at Medinah, and the last thirty-two qualifiers gaining the championship match play bracket. An additional first flight of eight also will qualify. First and second rounds of match play will be played next Sunday. The third round and semifinals will be decided on Saturday, Aug. 13, and the 36 hole title match will take place on Sunday, Aug. 14. The entry fee is $5. All amateur golfers residing within 25 miles of Chicago are eligible to enter.

REVOLTA TAKES ST. PAUL OPEN; GOGGIN SECOND

Evanston Pro Scores 276; Harrison Fourth.

St. Paul, Minn., July 31.—(AP)—Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., who started turning his golf as a caddy fifteen years ago, won the $7,500 St. Paul Open championship and its $1,600 first money today.

Revolta, shooting a final round of 68, completed the 72 holes with a 276 total. Willie Goggin of San Bruno, Cal., was second with 277 and Sam Snead, the defending champion from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., third with 278.

A Thrilling Finish.

A gallery which met officials finally estimated at 10,000 saw a thrilling finish. Revolta was the first to finish, adding a brilliant four-under-par 68 to his previous rounds of 69, 68, and 71. Goggin, runner-up for last year, had the finest chance for a tie but his putter let him down.

Coming to the 17th tee, the California star needed only a birdie and a par to tie—and the $19 yard 18th is known as an easy subpar hole. He was on the 17th green in two and he three putted from 30 feet. His bid for a tying eagle on the 18th failed when his approach putt missed the cup by an inch—and Goggin had second money of $1,650.

Harrison is Fourth.

Ernie Harrison of Oak Park, Ill., who was fourth with 279, pocketed $600. Leading scores:

LAWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

SIMPLER LAWS SOUGHT TO SPUR NEW FINANCING

B. A. Opens Drive to Release Capital.

A movement to simplify the intricate laws governing issuance and sale of securities was begun yesterday by the Investment Bankers Association of America. A committee was named "to study the whole fabric" of such legislation, including the securities act of 1933 and the securities exchange act of 1934.

The action was announced in the association's organ, Investment Bankers. Francis E. Frothingham, president of the organization, appointed the committee. The movement represents the concerted effort of a wave of regulation that has been growing in the last five years, financial circles said. The association represents a large part of the dealers and underwriters who handle the security issues by which the nation's industries finance their long term capital needs.

Flow of Funds Hampered.
The purpose of the survey, said the announcement, is to bring about elimination of the "bottlenecks" which choke off funds needed in business enterprise, hampering recovery.

Such a survey is thought likely to reveal the publication said, that "efforts we are making to get the capital markets under way are being defeated by superfluous complexities of the laws and regulations."

William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, has indicated the undertaking is agreeable to the commission, the announcement said. It emphasized the association's view that "sound corrective purposes of the law must be upheld."

Chicagoan on Committee.
Frothingham appointed a Chicagoan to the new committee—L. V. Bower of Harris, Hall & Co.

Economists confirm the urgent need for a resumption of the flow of new capital, particularly into the durable goods industries, which are the crux of the unemployment problem, the announcement said.

In the twelve years to 1930, it added, "strictly new financing for corporations averaged three and three quarters billions annually. The total new corporate financing for the last eight years is less than the volume done in single years in the past."

General Motors Dividends Will Be Considered Today
Directors of General Motors corporation will meet this afternoon to consider dividends on the common and preferred stocks. A dividend of 25 cents was paid on the common stock on August 1, 1937.

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana are to meet this morning for dividend action.

Railroad Yardsticks—2.
One of the railroad yardsticks available in monthly as well as annual reports is the operating ratio. The operating ratio is the percentage of operating revenues required for operating expenses. It is found by dividing total operating expenses by total operating revenues. The operating ratio is customarily given in railroad statistics.

The principal value of the operating ratio is that it gives a general picture of a railroad's efficiency. The operating ratio does not, however, tell the whole story. Other factors than efficiency also affect the operating ratio at particular periods. Revenues often fall faster than expenses early in a depression. This would make the operating ratio rise, although the road might be operating as efficiently as ever. Conversely, expenses sometimes rise more rapidly than revenues if prices of things railroad buys are advancing rapidly.

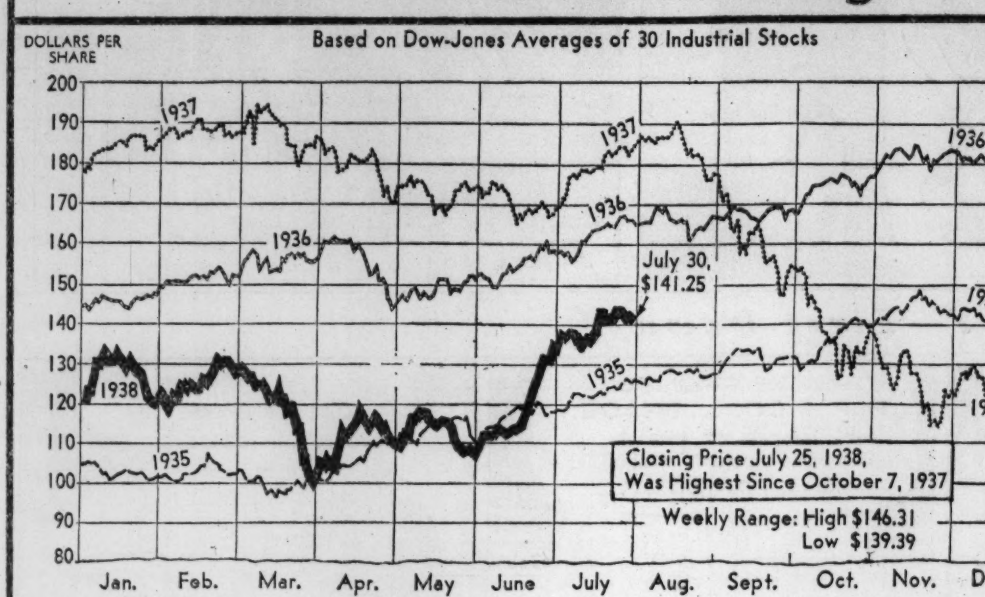

Operating ratios of different roads vary a great deal. For example, the Norfolk and Western railroad had an operating ratio of 56 per cent in 1937 and only 52.86 per cent in 1936. The ratio rose to 71.4 per cent in the first five months of this year. On the other hand, some less efficient roads have ratios in the high 80s or low 90s even in normal times.

HULL DENIES HE 'SOLD FARMER DOWN RIVER' IN HIS TRADE ACCORDS

Washington, D. C., July 31.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull denounced the "surrender" of the government's trade treaty program today in a letter in which he said a good word for Senator Pope (D., Idaho), an administration stalwart up for reelection this year.

Hull's letter replied to one from Pope in which Pope invited comment on an editorial in the Idaho Farmer contending American agriculture had been "sold down the river."

The secretary charged critics had used erroneous trade balance comparisons to "befuddle the millions of farmers."

"Very real progress" has been made, Hull asserted, in obtaining from other nations concessions of value to American agriculture.

Expressing "my appreciation of the splendid support you have given," Hull said in the letter to Pope, that although last year the United States imported $1,581,000,000 worth of agricultural products, $711,000,000 of this consisted of rubber, coffee, tea, and other noncompetitive products of farmers.

"On a quota basis," he said, "highly advantageous to the domestic industry," he said.

The trend in the first half of this year was increasingly in the farmer's favor. Imports of all agricultural products totaled $476,000,000, compared with $901,000,000 during the first six months of 1937, he said, and exports of farm products amounted to $413,000,000, compared with $319,000,000.

The trend in the first half of this year was increasingly in the farmer's favor. 1938-'39 WHEAT PRICES TO DROP, U. S. PREDICTS World supply and demand conditions probably will result in lower grain prices during the 1938-'39 season than prevailed the preceding crop year, according to the federal bureau of agricultural economics.

In a summary of the world wheat and rye outlook the bureau said an abundance of supplies exists both in North America and in Europe.

The range of prices for last week follows:

Articles on Recovery Barriers to Be Resumed
The eighth of a series of articles by Howard Wood, financial editor of THE TRIBUNE, will appear tomorrow. In the article, he discussed the important phases of the question: "What is holding business back from a genuine recovery?"

Announcement is made of the formation of MERRILL LYNCH & CO. INC.

MERRILL LYNCH & CO. INC. will maintain its principal office at 40 Wall Street, New York, N. Y., where it will conduct the general investment business carried on since 1915 by the partnership of Merrill, Lynch & Co. and also the general investment business carried on at that address by Cassatt & Co. Incorporated.

CASSATT & CO. INCORPORATED will be operated as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Merrill Lynch & Co. Inc., with its principal office, as heretofore, at South Penn Square, Philadelphia, Pa.

WESTERN COAL PRODUCERS TOLD TO FILE PRICES

Washington, D. C., July 31.—(AP)—The bituminous coal commission to board in the Rocky Mountain and Pacific coast regions to file proposed minimum prices and marketing rules for their coal by Aug. 24.

The order directed the boards to base their proposed prices on the weighted average cost of coal for the minimum price areas within those regions, as approved the commission, and sent to the boards yesterday.

The cost estimates were made by the boards and hearings on them were conducted in Denver last month.

Meanwhile the commission proceeded to analyze evidence from those hearings, in preparation for calling on producers' boards in midwestern and eastern states to submit proposed prices.

New Cuban Bonds.

Investors' Guide: I have a Cuba Public Works 5 1/2 per cent bond of 1945. I understand this bond can be traded for one of a new issue of Republic of Cuba 4 1/2 per cent bonds of 1977. Please tell me about the new bonds and how I can exchange my old bond for the new one.—Mrs. G. V. Z.

Answer: The $85,000,000 of new Cuban 4 1/2 per cent bonds due June 30, 1977, were mostly issued to holders of various debts of the Republic of Cuba. One of the debts was the $44,000,000 of 5 1/2 per cent bonds of 1945, the issue you hold.

The bonds are a direct obligation of the Republic of Cuba. The agreement under which the bonds were issued specifies that certain taxes shall be used for meeting interest and sinking fund payments. The sinking fund provides for retirement of all the bonds on or before maturity.

Interest is payable in American money at the Manufacturers Trust company, New York. You can exchange your bonds for the new issue through the Manufacturers Trust company. The new bonds are regarded as speculative. Expenditures of the republic have exceeded revenues in recent years.

Transfer Offices.
Investors' Guide: Please tell me where the stock transfer offices of the Club Aluminum Utensil company and the Great Northern Railway company are located.—J. P.

Answer: Stock transfers of Club Aluminum Utensil stock are handled at the company's office, 1238 Fullerton avenue, Chicago, Ill. Transfer offices for Great Northern Railway company stock are at 2 Wall Street, New York, and at the Great Northern building, St. Paul, Minn.

CHICAGO TRADE GAINS SLIGHTLY; 16 EXHIBITS TO BE OPENED TODAY

Business in Chicago showed slight signs of improvement last week and is expected to get a good boost from the opening of sixteen trade shows here today. Observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce said yesterday that wholesalers reported heavier buying last week and "satisfactory interest" from retailers in rural areas. Retail sales continued rather slow.

The Fall Market Opening week, sponsored by the association, gets underway today and is expected to bring thousands of out of town buyers to Chicago.

Gwyn, Railway Express Agency Official, Retires
Lewis R. Gwyn, for fourteen years vice president in charge of labor relations for the Railway Express Agency, has retired. He was announced in New York yesterday by L. O. Head, president of the company. Albert M. Hartung, former general solicitor in the express company's legal department, was named Gwyn's successor.

New Firm Will Succeed Merrill-Lynch Partnership
Merrill, Lynch & Co. Inc., with principal office at 40 Wall Street, New York, has been formed to succeed to the investment business heretofore conducted by the partnership of Merrill, Lynch & Co., it was announced yesterday.

STEEL BUYING GAINS; OUTPUT IS LEVELING OFF

Expect Auto Plants to Boost Orders.

The upturn in steel ingot production rates leveled off last week, the magazine Steel said yesterday. It estimated production was at the rate of 37 per cent of capacity, a rise of one percentage point from the preceding week.

Moderate gains were noted in demand for steel. Imports were small, but buying has been well diversified, the trade journal said.

"Subsequent recovery the next month or two will be gradual at best. It is believed, with the automotive industry counted on to lead the way to better steel bookings later this year."

"A few purchases of flat rolled material have been made for early runs on new automobile models, and there are prospects of additional purchases within the next two weeks."

Steel indicated steel price increases must be expected. Producers are unable to reduce their labor costs.

Scrap prices continued to surge forward in the face of light buying. Increases at most centers last week raised Steel's composite price of steel-making scrap grades 58 cents a ton to $14.08, a new high since last October.
